JURY FINDS OMAHANS GUILTY

Secretary In Uruguay, Senator In Chile . . .

RUSK, RFK SPAT ON IN SOUTH AMERICA

By The Associated Press

Angry leftist students spat on U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., in Concepcion, Chile, Tuesday, and in Montevideo, Uruguay, a 25-year-old man spat in Secretary of state Dean Rusk's face

Shouting "this is the name of my people," the man was roughly handled by Uruguayan policemen on guard at the monument to Gen. Jose Artigas where Rusk, on a Latin American tour, had placed a floral wreath.

Rusk had conferred with President Washington Beltran of Uruguay's national council of government.

Rusk Jokes

Arriving later in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to attend an inter-American foreign ministers' conference, Rusk smiled and said his reception in Latin American cities had been "extremely hospitable."

Then he added: "With the exception of one individual whose welcome seemed to be a little unconventional."

When Kennedy visited the University of Chile Tuesday, the leftist students threw eggs, rocks and money at him. He had been warned by student leaders to stay away.

Forehead, Clothes

Although the senator apparently was not hit by the eggs or stones, spittle fell on his forehead and clothes.

A group of about 100 university students, identified as pro-communists, were among thousands that attended the meeting.

They sang the national anthems of Cuba and Chile and screamed "assassin," and "Yankee go home" at the senator, who is on a Latin-American tour.

Kennedy remained calm and waited 20 minutes for the students to quiet down. When he started to speak his voice again was drowned out.

He asked if some of the students wished to come forward and discuss matters with him, but leftists shouted back that Kennedy should come toward them.

Flag Burned

Kennedy started toward them and as he approached some tried to kick him, others spit at him and still others burned a U.S. flag in a corner of the gymnasium where the meeting was held.

In the few minutes that Kennedy tried to speak, he told the students the United States looks with sympathy toward the social and economic reforms being applied in Chile. He also told them the United States is led by human beings and, because of this, errors will be made, but the errors will not be solved by throwing eggs.

Other students tried to quiet the leftists and some ran toward the center of the gym and challenged the leftists to fight.

As the tense situation continued, Kennedy left the gym surrounded by aides and newsmen who sought to protect him.

Outside the building, some anticommunist students approached his wife, Ethel, and told her, "Senora, please . . . forgive us for this shameful situation."

Trio Convicted In Bribe Case

. . . TO SEEK NEW TRIALS

Omaha (AP) — A District Court jury convicted two former Omaha city councilmen Tuesday of soliciting bribes while in office and found a real estate man guilty of assisting them.

The three were accused by a 30-year-old Chicago investment man of a shakedown when he sought rezoning of a West Omaha tract on which he proposed building a million dollar townhouse project.

The Chicagoan, John B. Coleman, accused Ernest A. Adams, a former councilman and onetime state senator, of selling his vote for $5,000 and former councilman Stephen T. Novak of agreeing to take $10,000 for his vote.

Abboud

Coleman described Ronald J. Abboud as a go-between who made payoffs on his behalf.

Adams Novak

Attorneys for each of the convicted men said they would move for new trials.

The jury filed into the courtroom shortly after 3 p.m. Tuesday. It had taken the case about 5:20 p.m. Monday.

Coleman said the shakedown began when he sought City Planning Board approval of the rezoning.

Coleman testified he had sought help from the Omaha World-Herald which in turn hired former FBI agent Joseph Thornton.

Thornton supervised the installation of tiny microphone-transmitters in Coleman's hotel room. Conversations in the hotel room were monitored and recorded on a tape in a neighboring room he said.

Heard Tapes

The jury spent the better part of three days listening to most of 11 tape recordings which were admitted in evidence. Some portions of the tape were inaudible, but prosecutors argued that others could be clearly heard and served to corroborate Coleman's testimony.

Coleman, said an assistant prosecutor, James Murphy, "put eavesdropping equipment in his room to show it was the truth he spoke."

The bugging of Coleman's room drew continual fire from defense attorneys who argued it was an invasion of privacy.

5 Or 6 Times

Ephraim Marks, representing Abboud, referred to Thornton's testimony that in 25 years in the FBI he had only been involved in bugging operations five or six times and in each case the personal permission of the U.S. attorney general was required.

The defense also attacked the role of the World-Herald in the investigation.

"I wouldn't question the right of any newspaper to expose civic corruption," said Marks, but added: "That's a far cry from what was done in this case."

Admitted

Another assistant prosecutor, Arthur O'Leary, told the jury that if the tapes were illegal and had constituted an invasion of privacy, they would not have been admitted as evidence.

In his instructions, Judge John Murphy told the jurors they could neither accept nor reject evidence purely on the ground it was recorded.

In addition to the tapes, the state relied on a series of checks and photostatic copies of checks exchanged among the principals. Proseuctors argued the checks represented payoffs, or reimbursements of Abboud for payoffs made by him on behalf of Coleman.

Legitimate

The defense sought to show, among other things, that part of the checks were given in legitimate real estate transactions.

The World Herald published its story on Sept. 25, 1964. A grand jury later indicted Abboud, Adams and Novak along with former City Planning Board member C. R. (Barney) Buttner and former mayor James Dworak.

Judge Murphy threw out the indictment against Buttner. Dworak is yet to come to trial.

Had Checks

The jurors had with them during their deliberations the checks and other documents introduced as evidence. They did not, however, have the tape recordings.

Abboud and Novak declined comment after the verdicts. Adams talked with newsmen, many of whom were old acquaintances. Asked how he felt, he said "I could feel a lot better."

He said he would appeal if necessary.

Jurors told newsmen they had agreed among themselves not to comment about their verdict or their deliberations.

TEAM ARRIVES FOR MEAD TOUR

. . . Nebraska's Proposed Accelerator Site Faces AEC Probe

A four-man team from the Atomic Energy Commission will travel to Mead Wednesday to inspect Nebraska's proposed site for the $348 million AEC proton accelerator.

The team arrived in Omaha late Tuesday.

Following the inspection, the team will be transported to Lincoln for a briefing by technical teams from the Lincoln and Omaha Chambers of Commerce.

The AEC representatives will begin their tour in Omaha at a 7:30 a.m. breakfast, briefing and press conference at the Blackstone Hotel.

To Accompany Team

Lincoln and Omaha Chamber representatives will accompany the team on the inspection tour at Mead. Helicopters will be available for aerial inspection

Lunch is scheduled in Lincoln at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, followed by the final briefing and another news conference.

AEC spokesmen will then be returned to Omaha for departure by air.

At stake is location of the big federal scientific prize of the century, the 200-billion-electron-bolt atom smasher machine.

The facility will require seven years to build and cost about $60 million a year to operate. Some 2,300 scientists and technicians will be required to operate the machine, and about 1,000 more are expected to visit it annually to perform experiments.

In the race for location are 85 proposed sites, already scaled down from an original list of 126 applications. The reduced list still includes locations in 43 states.

AEC officials have indicated that they hope to include an initial request for construction funds in their budget for fiscal 1967.

The proton accelerator is designed to explore the fundamental secrets of nature. It is a basic research device to obtain scientific data on the constituent parts of the nucleus of the atom.

Rep. Clair Callan will join the inspection team during its tour. Callan has said that the Mead site is among the leading 35 contenders for the facility.

The team flew to Omaha from Denver.

Pope's Emotionless Appearance Fades

. . . AS HE TELLS OF 'IDEAS'

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The silent, emotionless figure that has been Duane Pope showed traces of agony Tuesday as the accused slayer told a Federal District Court jury of ideas that crept into his mind the last few weeks before the bank robbery and fatal shootings at Big Springs.

Pope had been on the witness stand most of the day when defense attorney Robert Crosby asked him. "Did there come a time when you would think of another idea"?

"Yes", Pope acknowledged, and then explained that "In May, about the middle of May", he began thinking about "shooting somebody".

'Shooting People'

Under questions by Crosby, Pope said that the fantasy included shooting "3 or 4" people, both men and women, and would occur to him during idle moments with progressing frequency as the last days of his college career came to an end

Earlier last May, Pope testified, he had an urge to "crash my car into a bridge", and on another occasion, had thought of shooting his 18-year-old brother, Dennis, the person he said he loved most.

It was at this point that the here-to-fore placid demeanor of the young defendant cracked for the first time during the trial for his life

Voice Choked

His voice choked and his eyes welled with tears as Pope told the jury. "Dennis was fishing and I was standing away from him shooting turtles and all of a sudden I wanted to shoot him."

Pope also told of having an urge to throw his younger brother, Eric, 3, into a farm pond.

"Did you think you should be concerned about these thoughts"? Crosby asked. "They seemed to pass away," Pope answered softly.

'Not at First'

Pope testified that the "picture" in his mind of shooting people did not include robbing a bank or using a silencer at first.

And although admitting that his final idea was to rob the bank and kill the employes at Big Springs, he said he "really didn't know why" he chose the small southwest Nebraska community.

Having previously testified to visiting Big Springs while working with a harvesting crew in the summer of 1964. Pope told jurors that all he particularly remembered about it was "an old Caterpillar tractor I had seen" on a road south of the town.

Observed Him

Pope recalled that Alvin Willems, professor of industrial arts at McPherson (Kan.) College, had observed him making a silencer in the school's workshop sometime in May. Pope graduated from the college May 30, five days before the holdup.

"Were you afraid Mr. Willems would find out what you were making?" Crosby asked.

"It seemed like I wanted him to . . . I wanted him to guess what it was," Pope replied.

"Why?" said Crosby.

'Maybe'

"If he knew maybe he would be able to stop me," Pope said, biting his lips and lowering his head.

Pope's testimony is seen as a prelude to testimony from defense psychiatric experts designed to prove that Pope is blameless for the bank killings.

The defense is staking its case on the contention that Pope, as a schizoid personality, cracked under the pressures of college graduation and other demands.

Flagging Interest

Much of Pope's testimony Tuesday centered on his flagging interest in college and his infatuation with tractors and how it affected his relationship with girls and sports.

During two summers of harvesting work, Pope said, McPherson College buddies would have to talk him into returning to school in the fall.

He told the jury of ten men and two women of his indecision about a future career and his plans to work in McPherson until he entered the service.

Drive To Stop Income Tax Law Implementation May Have Failed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Income tax referendum petitioners may have failed to file sufficiently distributed signatures in time to suspend implementation of the law until after a popular vote on the issue in 1966

Sponsors of the drive Tuesday filed enough additional signatures to meet the 38-county requirement for distribution of signatures by at least 10% of the electors.

But, the deadline date for filing petitions may have been Monday, instead of Tuesday

To Seek Opinion

The question will be submitted to Attorney General Clarence Meyer for a legal opinion, according to Allen Beermann, administrative assistant to the secretary of state.

Also submitted to the attorney general for an opinion is the question of whether the 10% requirement for suspension of implementation of a law must also be met in 38 counties, Beermann said.

Constitutional language indicates that the 10% figure may apply only to total statewide signatures, while a 5% figure would be sufficient for distribution in at least 38 counties, Beermann said.

Definitely Met

Signatures totaling 5% of the statewide electors, including at least 5% of the electors in at least 38 counties, are sufficient to place the law on the 1966 ballot. Those requirements have definitely been met.

The question over the deadline date results from constitutional language contained in Article III, Section 3.

Petitions, the constitution says, must be filed with the secretary of state "within 90 days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed shall have adjourned sine die . . ."

Adjourned Aug. 17

The 1965 Legislature adjourned August 17. Beginning the count with Aug. 18, the 90th day would be reached as of last Monday

Meyer declined to comment on the question late Tuesday.

Only 37 counties had met the 10% requirement when the secretary of state's office closed Monday, Beermann said. Additional signatures Tuesday raised the number of counties with 10% signatures to 39 and possibly 40 if sufficient valid Lancaster County signatures were filed.

Would Be Moot

Beermann said the question over deadline date would be moot if the 10% requirement need not be met in 38 counties. A total 10% statewide figure had already been reached

However, if the 10% requirement extends to 38 counties and the deadline is determined to have been Monday, petitioners will have fallen one county short of preventing state officials from preparing for implementation of the law prior to the 1966 vote.

If suspended, officials would be prevented have taking any action authorized by the act and from spending funds to prepare for its administration

The petition drive will not be officially certified for another 10 days or two weeks, Beermann said, pending a count of all signatures.

2 U. S. Battalions Quit Bloody Valley

Ia Drang Valley, Viet Nam (AP) —Two U.S. battalions pulled out of the Ia Drang Valley Wednesday after three days of bloody fighting near the Cambodian border.

Official sources said the Americans counted 637 communist dead.

Helicopters picked up about half of the 1st Cavalry force and the rest walked out of the lightly jungled valley where U.S. forces were at a tactical disadvantage because elements of a communist regiment held the high ground.

Senior commanders declined to speculate on what might come next.

There were fears that if the 1st Cavalrymen stayed in the valley much longer, the communists might bring up heavy mortars to pound the American positions which had repelled repeated Red suicide attacks. The American troops suffered moderate casualties.

Although the Americans left the field to the still-strong remnants of North Vietnamese battalions, the act was not considered a retreat.

Idea To Kill

The valley itself had no strategic importance and the American troops never had any intention of remaining there, an officer said. The idea was to kill as many communist troops as possible. And short of charging strongly entrenched Red positions where American casualties might be 10 times those of communist troops, the only alternative was to withdraw, he added.

"Dominating the news from other war sectors was a bombardment by eight U.S. Air Forces F105 Thunderchiefs of two North Vietnamese surface-to-air (SAM) missile sites, one 35 miles northwest and the other 32 miles northeast of Hanoi.

The spokesman said a missile fatally crippled one of the planes, and the pilot, who bailed out over the Gulf of Tonkin, was dead in the water when rescue crewmen reached him. The plane was the eighth American craft known to have been downed by missiles, which the Russians supply to the North Vietnamese.

A U.S. Marine officer announced a round of shells from friendly artillery fell short and killed two Marines and wounded 13 in an ambush position set up near the Chu Lai airstrip, 340 miles northeast of Saigon. The case is under investigation.

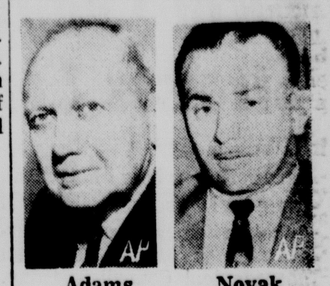
Trio Convicted In Bribe Case

. . . TO SEEK NEW TRIALS

Omaha (AP) — A District Court jury convicted two former Omaha city councilmen Tuesday of soliciting bribes while in office and found a real estate man guilty of assisting them.

The three were accused by a 30-year-old Chicago investment man of a shakedown when he sought rezoning of a West Omaha tract on which he proposed building a million dollar townhouse project.

The Chicagoan, John B. Coleman, accused Ernest A. Adams, a former councilman and onetime state senator, of selling his vote for $5,000 and former councilman Stephen T. Novak of agreeing to take $10,000 for his vote.



Adams — Novak

Coleman described Ronald J. Abboud as a go-between who made payoffs on his behalf.

Abboud

Attorneys for each of the convicted men said they would move for new trials.

The jury filed into the courtroom shortly after 3 p.m. Tuesday. It had taken the case about 5:20 p.m. Monday.

Coleman said the shakedown began when he sought City Planning Board approval of the rezoning.

Coleman testified he had sought help from the Omaha World-Herald which in turn hired former FBI agent Joseph Thornton.

Thornton supervised the installation of tiny microphone-transmitters in Coleman's hotel room. Conversations in the hotel room were monitored and recorded on a tape in a neighboring room he said.

Heard Tapes

The jury spent the better part of three days listening to most of 11 tape recordings which were admitted in evidence. Some portions of the tape were inaudible, but prosecutors argued that others could be clearly heard and served to corroborate Coleman's testimony.

Coleman, said an assistant prosecutor, James Murphy, "put eavesdropping equipment in his room to show it was the truth he spoke."

The bugging of Coleman's room drew continual fire from defense attorneys who argued it was an invasion of privacy.

5 Or 6 Times

Ephraim Marks, representing Abboud, referred to Thornton's testimony that in 25 years in the FBI he had only been involved in bugging operations five or six times and in each case the personal permission of the U.S. attorney general was required.

The defense also attacked the role of the World-Herald in the investigation.

"I wouldn't question the right of any newspaper to expose civic corruption," said Marks, but added: "That's a far cry from what was done in this case."

Admitted

Another assistant prosecutor, Arthur O'Leary, told the jury that if the tapes were illegal and had constituted an invasion of privacy, they would not have been admitted as evidence.

In his instructions, Judge John Murphy told the jurors they could neither accept nor reject evidence purely on the ground it was recorded.

In addition to the tapes, the state relied on a series of checks and photostatic copies of checks exchanged among the principals. Proseuctors argued the checks represented payoffs, or reimbursements of Abboud for payoffs made by him on behalf of Coleman.

Legitimate

The defense sought to show, among other things, that part of the checks were given in legitimate real estate transactions.

The World Herald published its story on Sept. 25, 1964. A grand jury later indicted Abboud, Adams and Novak along with former City Planning Board member C. R. (Barney) Buttner and former mayor James Dworak.

Judge Murphy threw out the indictment against Buttner. Dworak is yet to come to trial.

Had Checks

The jurors had with them during their deliberations the checks and other documents introduced as evidence. They did not, however, have the tape recordings.

Abboud and Novak declined comment after the verdicts. Adams talked with newsmen, many of whom were old acquaintances. Asked how he felt, he said "I could feel a lot better."

He said he would appeal if necessary.

Jurors told newsmen they had agreed among themselves not to comment about their verdict or their deliberations.

Drive To Stop Income Tax Law Implementation May Have Failed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Income tax referendum petitioners may have failed to file sufficiently distributed signatures in time to suspend implementation of the law until after a popular vote on the issue in 1966.

Sponsors of the drive Tuesday filed enough additional signatures to meet the 38-county requirement for distribution of signatures by at least 10% of the electors.

But, the deadline date for filing petitions may have been Monday, instead of Tuesday.

To Seek Opinion

The question will be submitted to Attorney General Clarence Meyer for a legal opinion, according to Allen Beermann, administrative assistant to the secretary of state.

Also submitted to the attorney general for an opinion is the question of whether the 10% requirement for suspension of implementation of a law must also be met in 38 counties, Beermann said.

Constitutional language indicates that the 10% figure may apply only to total statewide signatures, while a 5% figure would be sufficient for distribution in at least 38 counties, Beermann said.

Definitely Met

Signatures totaling 5% of the statewide electors, including at least 5% of the electors in at least 38 counties, are sufficient to place the law on the 1966 ballot. Those requirements have definitely been met.

The question over the deadline date results from constitutional language contained in Article III, Section 3.

Petitions, the constitution says, must be filed with the secretary of state "within 90 days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed shall have adjourned sine die . . ."

Adjourned Aug. 17

The 1965 Legislature adjourned August 17. Beginning the count with Aug. 18, the 90th day would be reached as of last Monday.

Meyer declined to comment on the question late Tuesday.

Only 37 counties had met the 10% requirement when the secretary of state's office closed Monday, Beermann said. Additional signatures Tuesday raised the number of counties with 10% signatures to 39 and possibly 40 if sufficient valid Lancaster County signatures were filed.

Beermann said the question over deadline date would be moot if the 10% requirement need not be met in 38 counties. A total 10% statewide figure had already been reached.

However, if the 10% requirement extends to 38 counties and the deadline is determined to have been Monday, petitioners will have fallen one county short of preventing state officials from preparing for implementation of the law prior to the 1966 vote.

If suspended, officials would be prevented have taking any action authorized by the act and from spending funds to prepare for its administration.

The petition drive will not be officially certified for another 10 days or two weeks, Beermann said, pending a count of all signatures.

2 U. S. Battalions Quit Bloody Valley

Ia Drang Valley, Viet Nam (AP) —Two U.S. battalions pulled out of the Ia Drang Valley Wednesday after three days of bloody fighting near the Cambodian border.

Official sources said the Americans counted 637 communist dead.

Helicopters picked up about half of the 1st Cavalry force and the rest walked out of the lightly jungled valley where U.S. forces were at a tactical disadvantage because elements of a communist regiment held the high ground.

Senior commanders declined to speculate on what might come next.

There were fears that if the 1st Cavalrymen stayed in the valley much longer, the communists might bring up heavy mortars to pound the American positions which had repelled repeated Red suicide attacks. The American troops suffered moderate casualties.

Although the Americans left the field to the still-strong remnants of North Vietnamese battalions, the act was not considered a retreat.

Idea To Kill

The valley itself had no strategic importance and the American troops never had any intention of remaining there, an officer said. The idea was to kill as many communist troops as possible. And short of charging strongly entrenched Red positions where American casualties might be 10 times those of communist troops, the only alternative was to withdraw, he added.

Dominating the news from other war sectors was a bombardment by eight U.S. Air Forces F105 Thunderchiefs of two North Vietnamese surface-to-air (SAM) missile sites, one 35 miles northwest and the other 32 miles northeast of Hanoi.

The spokesman said a missile fatally crippled one of the planes, and the pilot, who bailed out over the Gulf of Tonkin, was dead in the water when rescue crewmen reached him. The plane was the eighth American craft known to have been downed by missiles, which the Russians supply to the North Vietnamese.

A U.S. Marine officer announced a round of shells from friendly artillery fell short and killed two Marines and wounded 13 in an ambush position set up near the Chu Lai airstrip, 340 miles northeast of Saigon. The case is under investigation.

Thant Calls For Big Concessions By All

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — U N Secretary-General U Thant called Tuesday for major concessions by all parties to build a favorable political and psychological climate for a Viet Nam settlement.

He suggested that the large-scale fighting of today might have been averted if bold steps had been taken in 1964

Thant made his remarks at a luncheon, and his statement about 1964 was generally regarded as an indirect comment on a magazine article saying he had tried unsuccessfully last fall to bring U S and North Vietnamese representatives together in peace talks

Thant Was Angry

The article by CBS correspondent Eric Sevareid in Look magazine quoted the late U N Ambassador Adlai E Stevenson as saying the secretary-general had sent word to Washington that the Hanoi government was willing to talk peace Stevenson was reported to have said that Thant first was told to wait until after the U S election and then was told that the United States would not accept the Hanoi bid The report said further that Thant was furious as a result of Washington's attitude

The secretary-general has never confirmed or denied the report, but State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said Monday that at least one approach had been made by North Viet Nam a year ago. He said the United States had rejected the overture because it did not believe the Hanoi government was prepared for serious talks.

Thant did not mention these reports Tuesday, but he said:

"If only bold steps had been taken as late as 1964 I feel that much of today's tragic developments could have been avoided. I say this not in the spirit of 'I told you so' but out of the spirit of conviction."

Pact Or More War

He said he still believed the 1954 agreement reached in Geneva could be effected and he urged a return to the principles embodied in this agreement.

"The only alternative," he said, "is a prolongation and escalation of the conflict."

The 1954 Geneva agreement called for supervision of the division of North and South Viet Nam by a three-nation international commission made up of representatives of Canada, India and Poland. All parties were asked to respect the recognized lines specified in the agreement.

Thant has suggested several times that the best approach to a Viet Nam settlement was to reconvene the 14-nation Geneva conference. In the past few months, however, he has sought to arrange peace talks in any way that was acceptable to the parties involved.

Antigang Council Of War Convened

Boston (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe said Tuesday he is "amazed and appalled" by a wave of gang shootings which has taken 28 lives in Massachusetts in 20 months. He ordered the state police to step in and help local authorities stop the carnage

Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara of Boston hurriedly convened a meeting of top law enforcers from nine communities in the municipal area.

A spokesman for the police department said, "You can call this a war council against the hoodlums, if you want. We're cracking down and we're cracking down hard."

Come To Head

Matters came to a head Monday when a bartender and an apparently innocent customer were shot dead in a saloon at nearby Revere Beach and the body of an ex-convict was found with a bullet hole in the head near Boston Garden.

A roundup of known hoodlums began immediately. "Book them, photograph them fingerprint them," ordered Police Supt. Herbert F. Mulloney.

Lt. Edward Sherry of the Boston homicide said not all of the shootings were linked. The gunfire broke out when one of a hoodlum faction led by Edward J. McLaughlin of Charlestown shot and killed a member of another mob headed by James J McLean of Somerville March 15. 1964. McLaughlin's brother. George, was convicted and sentenced to death for the murder.

Some Accounted For

"We're sure the feud between the McLeans and the McLaughlins accounted for some of the killings," said Sherry. He added that in his opinion the other slayings possibly involved "small-time rackets and division of loot."

The three who died Monday were Robert A. Palladino, 34, out on parole from a prison term for robbery; Raymond Distasio, 35, the bartender, and John B. O'Neill, 26, a shoe factory worker.

O'Neill's wife said her husband, who was a casual acquaintance of Distasio, had gone to the saloon to buy her some cigarettes.

Distasio and O'Neill both were shot in the head. Five slugs were found from pistols of two different calibers.

Birth Control Statement Stresses Conjugal Love

Vatican City (AP) — Key declarations on birth control, racial discrimination and atheism cleared major hurdles at the Vatican Ecumenical Council Tuesday.

In a series of votes as they rushed to wind up work on their controversial schema on modern world problems, the council fathers meeting in St. Peter's Basilica· —Approved a statement on birth control that stresses conjugal love in marriage as an element important not only for bringing children into the world but as a physical expression of mutual love between husband and wife.

—Accepted a strong declaration against racial discrimination. It rules out gradual approach to the elimination of the problem and insists that discrimination must be "crushed and removed" as an offense to God.

—Quashed an 11th hour conservative demand to include an open condemnation of communism in its approved text on atheism. The text calls for a dialogue between the Roman Catholic Church and all nonbelievers, and pointedly singles out neither Marxism nor communism by name.

The part of the birth control statement emphasizing conjugal love has been considerably expanded from an earlier version. Council experts said it incorporates views of Paul Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal.

Last year and during this council session the Canadian cardinal spoke out for a new view of marriage to accept the idea that physical love is an essential marital element, by which couples express their love and respect for each other.

Many theologians regard this concept as pointing the way to acceptance in the church of the idea that sex in itself is a fundamental good in marriage.

Some of them feel that recognition of this view could one day provide the basis of the moral acceptability of contraception

Only The Couple

The birth control statement says that, in the final analysis, only parents have the right to decide on the size of their families and that in reaching their decisions they are to be guided by their conscience formed by the teaching of the church.

The statement reaffirms that a couple's manner of acting together must be based not only on good intention but on "objective criteria founded on the dignity of the human person to achieve mutual love and procreation"

It adds that couples must not use any means specifically prohibited by the church.

Members of the American bishop's press panel said the text was the most the council could say on birth control at a time when the entire question is under review by a papal commission.

Disarmament By Cash

Santo Domingo (AP) — To speed up its civilian disarmament operation, the Dominican Republic's provisional government is offering rewards for weapons turned in. For two weeks it will pay prices ranging from $20 for a pistol up to $300 for mortars and bazookas, and after that it plans to arrest and prosecute any found holding arms illegally.

U.S. Still For Unconditional Negotiations

Washington (AP)—The White House said Tuesday there has been no change in U.S. willingness to enter into unconditional discussions to end the war in Viet Nam.

Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers recalled President Johnson's speech in Baltimore last April 7. Johnson said then this country was willing to enter into discussions without pre-conditions.

"That was and is the position of the government," Moyers said.

Moyers said Johnson had stated this position over and over again, about 50 times.

'Little Lieutenant' A Hero

By JOSEPH GALLOWAY

Chu Pong Mountain, Viet Nam (UPI) —"That little lieutenant just got up and ran them down," an awed American enlisted man said. "He was really killing them left and right."

The "little lieutenant" was Lt. Joe Marm of Washington, Pa., leader of the 2nd Platoon of Alpha Company.

The lieutenant's men of the 1st Air Cavalry were pinned down by a communist machine gun bunker on the fringes of the landing zone at Chu Pong Mountain. He saw a couple of his men shot.

Mound Of Dirt

The communists were dug in behind a mound of dirt — perhaps eight feet high —about 40 or 50 yards in front of the platoon.

Marm grabbed a LAL, one of the throw-away bazookas about three feet long that fire one rocket. He slammed the explosive charge into the hill. It blew it apart.

Then the lieutenant grabbed a handful of grenades and, firing his M16 rifle, set on automatic with three clips of 20 rounds feeding through it, he charged the bunker single-handedly.

Inside the bunker were 12 communists, all with submachine guns or other automatic weapons. He killed them all, and six more that were entrenched on the flanks of the bunker—a total of 18.

'Helluva Lot Of Fire'

"The lieutenant charged under a helluva lot of fire," said Sgt. Steve Hanson of San Gabriel, Calif. "Marm was wounded in the jaw and neck, but he managed to walk to the medical evacuation chopper by himself."

"He's a fantastic man," said company commander Capt. Raymon Nadal of Stillwater, Okla.

The officers of the battalion have recommended Marm for the Medal of Honor, and they're going to do everything they can to see that he gets it.

Hanoi Blasts U.S. Strength Boost

Tokyo (AP)—Communist North Viet Nam declared Tuesday the U.S. decision to send more troops to South Viet Nam shows that American professions for peace and unconditional discussions "are sheer swindle and shameless hypocritical talk."

The denunciation was made in a foreign ministry statement broadcast by Radio Hanoi. It was commenting on Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's announcement last Thursday that President Johnson has given American field commanders broad authority to call for — and get— additional fighting men to step up the war against the Reds.

U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam now total 161,000.

The North Vietnamese statement reiterated the Communist demand for the withdrawal of all American and other foreign troops from South Viet Nam and an end to the air attacks on the north.

"The government of the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam," it said, "earnestly calls on all peace-loving governments and peoples in the world, and on the American people, to step up the struggle in order to secure from the U.S. government the ending of the war of aggression in Viet Nam."

Russians Launch Venus 3

Moscow (AP)—The Soviet Union launched Tuesday its second unmanned satellite toward Venus in five days, doubling its chances of reaching the cloud-draped planet this time after nearly five years of failures.

A Soviet announcement said Venus 3 carried scientific equipment to carry out different scientific investigations from Venus 2, launched Friday.

These differences were not spelled out. In other respects the satellites appeared to be about the same. Venus 3 at 2,116 pounds weighed only 7 pounds less than Venus 2.

Both were launched by multistaged rockets with the final stage fired toward the planet from an orbit around the earth.

Each followed a course "close to the prescribed one," Tass news agency said. And each was expected to reach Venus in 3½ months if all goes well.

LBJ Keeping Appearances In Public To Bare Minimum

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson plans to limit his public appearances to an "absolute minimum" for the rest of the year in order to concentrate on the 1966 budget and his legislative proposals for the new session of Congress.

The White House, announcing this, said the President Tuesday, for example, spent most of the morning going over papers connected with the budget, his State of the Union message to Congress in January, and proposals for legislation.

Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers said the President still has to go slow because he still is not fully recovered from his Oct. 8 gall bladder operation.

Moyers gave this view of Johnson at work·

"He is having to pace himself in terms of his schedule and in terms of his reading, in terms of his personal and private deliberation, in terms of his conversations with staff members, agency and Cabinet heads.

"He is continuing to work, to rest. But I do think it is fair to say that he is stepping up the amount of time and effort that he is spending on this kind of quiet, behind-the-scenes deliberation."

Johnson flew back to Washington Sunday night after a period of recuperation at his Texas ranch.

Morrison Orders Close Of Mead Prison Farm

Gov. Frank Morrison announced late Tuesday that the Mead prison farm project will be phased out

The governor met with members of the state institutional advisory board and director of institutions George Morris Tuesday to decide the fate of the farm.

"The cost and operation of the Mead project is such that we think that the money used in another form of rehabilitation would be a more effective operation," the governor said.

"No matter how efficient the farm will be, it is very unlikely it'll ever show a profit.

"After serious study with the committee and Mr. Morris, I feel the cost of the project does not justify the expenses involved in the operation.

"After close consultation with the committee, it is my conclusion that the Mead project should be phased out, and we should seek other activities which would be more valuable to the rehabilitation of prisoners and would be less costly to the state."

The Mead penal farm was the center of a controversy recently after reported thievery and partying by both inmates and guards.

However, an investigation by Morris discounted most of the inmate allegations that they had the run of the place.

Five Charged

A state Safety Patrol report had told of convicts' tales of unauthorized trips, sex play and drinking bouts. Two guards and three inmates were charged with petit larceny.

Morrison had agreed to a re-assessment of the Mead operation in a meeting with the Legislature's Budget Committee earlier this year.

The Budget Committee was not happy with the Mead operation. State Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings, chairman, noted that the penal farm had been established without legislative approval and that it was losing money.

The farm is financed with money from the prison industries

It is difficult to tell in advance how valuable such a project can be, the governor said.

"You have to learn by experience, and for us Mead was a very valuable experience."

The future use of the farm's land is to be looked into by the state, the governor said.

"I want to explore the possibilities of using this land for another state farm," he said. "My goal is that all state land should serve some useful purpose."

The Mead farm was used primarily to grow vegetables, the governor said, but this would take from five to six years to determine how economically profitable truck farming is.

Fairbury Garage Blaze Damage Hits $150,000

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — A spectacular fire gutted the main part of Pilcher Motor Company Tuesday night and left an estimated loss exceeding $150,000.

Breaking out in a paint shop near the garage's rear, flames quickly engulfed the structure. Firemen saved adjoining showrooms, however, and the only cars destroyed were two used ones.

"I heard someone yell that a can of paint thinner was on fire and everybody started driving out cars," said owner Charles Pilcher. "There was no explosion at first, but in a few minutes things were blowing up all over and the whole place was aflame."

Threatened for a time were three adjacent businesses: The Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Company office, a service station and a hatchery. Several hundred onlookers were attracted as the resultant blows became visible for miles

'Most Fortunate'

Pilcher said he felt "most fortunate" that no employes were injured. Warren Mathy had been painting in the shop when the fire started, and a dozen other workers were in various parts of the building.

Erupting shortly before 6 p.m. closing time, the blaze within a few more minutes would have destroyed "a whole building full of cars" being moved in for overnight. The Buick-Pontiac dealer estimated that at least two dozen autos were driven from the burning garage.

Fire Chief Harold Saathoff also expressed gratification that no firemen were hurt. Numerous small explosions occurred as paint, gasoline and various chemicals were ignited.

The burned portion of the building, 50 by 143 feet, included the office and most of the repair department. Pilcher estimated the replacement value of the building at over $50,000 and the equipment at near $100,000.

The garage site is one and a half blocks north of the town square on the main business street.

Auto Insurance Criticism Said False By Hruska

Washington (AP) — Failure of some automobile insurance companies has raised an "immodest and terribly inaccurate cry" that the federal government can do a better job of regulating the industry, says Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb

In a statement in a post-adjournment issue of the Congressional Record, he continued:

"The premise must be that a federal system of control would provide more knowledgeable and more dedicated administrators than can be provided by the states. The premise is a false one."

The states, Hruska said, have done and are doing their job.

Hruska said the automobile insurance industry is "far from being sick" and that its successes and service to the public are so overwhelming when compared with its failures "that the investigators stand in awe." State governments, he said, "deserve their share of the credit."

Gupton Removed From Road Toll

The State Accident Records Bureau Tuesday withdrew the name of Leonard H. Gupton of Oxford from the list of 1965 Nebraska traffic fatalities.

The bureau said Mr. Gupton, 70, was killed on Oct. 6 when his tractor overturned on a lane leading to his farmhouse two miles south of Oxford.

The bureau said it had first been reported the accident occurred on a county road. The death will not be recorded as resulting from a farm accident.

Oakland Man Dies; Another Hurt In Crash

Omaha (AP)—One man was killed and another injured in a two-truck collision at the southwest edge of Omaha Tuesday afternoon.

The State Safety Patrol identified the victim as 68-year-old Leslie Laursen of Oakland, Neb. In critical condition at a hospital was 68-year-old Art Johnson, also of Oakland.

The patrol said it was not immediately determined which man was driving the pickup truck, in collision with a grain truck driven by Durward Sidebottom of Fort Calhoun

Both of the men were thrown from the pickup.

The accident occurred at 72nd and "L" Streets.

The death brought the 1965 Nebraska traffic toll to 336, compared with 381 on this date one year ago.

An elderly Omaha woman injured in an auto-pedestrian accident last Aug. 12 died in a hospital Monday night but it has not yet been determined if her death will be counted as a traffic fatality.

The victim, Mrs. Mary Hoyt, 66, suffered a fractured leg when she and three other persons were struck by a runaway car as they walked across 16th street.

The driver Donald Powell, 20, told police at the time he had turned to reach for sunglasses in the back seat and lost control of the car.

Acting Coroner George Sullivan said an autopsy will be held to determine if Mrs. Hoyt's injuries caused her death.

Knotwell Hearing Continuance OKd

Madison (AP)—A preliminary hearing on four counts of public embezzlement filed against former Norfolk police chief Otis J. Knotwell was continued until Friday after several additional witnesses were heard on Tuesday.

The continuance was granted at the request of Knotwell's attorney, Vincent Kirby.

Several members of the Norfolk Police Department were on the stand Tuesday. Among them was assistant Police Chief Ervin Wrneeke, who testified that when he took over as acting chief about May 1, he found $806 in cash in various drawers of Knotwell's desk.

County Attorney Richard Mueting has charged that shortages existed in various funds for which collections were made by the Police Department.

Base Use Progressing

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

With far less controversy than might have been expected, the future of the Lincoln Air Force Base is slowly coming into focus. Some time next summer, the Strategic Air Command will abandon in total its operations at the base and the city will face the prospect of what to do with the vast acreage that remains. At present, aviation and educational uses are in the forefront of city thinking.

More specifically the base will become a first-class aviation operation under the Lincoln Airport Authority — a facility capable of handling any of the aviation needs of this community and area in the foreseeable future. There should be no argument with this. The purpose years ago in placing the municipal airport were it is was eventually to utilize the facilities to be abandoned by SAC. Too the educational use of the base seems to be narrowed down at this time to a job corps center under sponsorship of Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha and the University of Nebraska, under auspices of the federal government.

The Original Intent

This educational use as a job corps center is somewhat controversial. Some people are uncertain of its social consequences since it would bring into Lincoln young people from all parts of the country who have been at the low end of the economic scale. Others have been uncertain as to the permanency of the installation, fearing that it is an expediency to meet a current economic situation that could change any time.

And finally, there are those who believe that the base should be devoted to industrial uses. They want something found for the base that would replace the big annual payroll that was there when 6,000 military people and supporting personnel manned the installation.

There is no one who can say for sure that such questions are right or wrong. But there are many considerations that ought to be taken into account. The matter of who will be brought into the community as a result of a job corps center is uncertain. It is true that those who avail themselves of the center opportunity for training are not currently equipped to make much of a go of it in the world. In short, they are having a hard time finding a job because they lack the qualifications business and industry are looking for. But it does not follow that these would be morally lax individuals. They would be basically young people with insufficient schooling or experience to qualify them for employment.

A great many of these people, given the assistance of training in such a center, will become productive and constructive members of society. They will become an asset to the community in which they live and the companies for which they work. Northern Natural itself would intend to use as many of these people as possible. Beyond this, the center should provide the Lincoln area with a labor pool that should be of assistance to it in its search for industry. The departure of the Strategic Air Command actually should produce some shortage of labor since many of the 6,000 military personnel or their wives held civilian jobs in Lincoln. No one would guarantee that Lincoln would not have a single unpleasant experience with the Job corps center but such is much more likely to be the exception rather than the rule.

As to permanency, the question is one that cannot be answered. The center could last for a couple of years or it could last indefinitely. Also, other things could evolve from the center such as expansion into services for the mentally retarded, private vocational education, a state vocational educational operation, an academic institution, etc.

As to industry, the desire to locate it at the base and actually getting it are two different things. We could wait a long time before we landed an industry for the base and, in the meantime, we would face the hard and costly job of maintaining the area. Many consider the base housing as an asset to industry when it might not be such at all.

There is no guarantee that people employed by industry that might locate at the base would want to live there. In fact, the chances are that they would want to live elsewhere. Also, Lincoln has an ample supply of industrial locations in areas other than the base. There are spot industrial locations available as well as the major, planned industrial sites of private individuals and the Chamber of Commerce. Lincoln is losing no industry as a result of shortage of sites. And the job corps will provide an immediate use of the base that might not be possible under any other circumstances.

No Shortage Sites

Nor would the job corps take all the base. It is still possible that such a center be established and room remain at the base for industry, moving there of the State Fair or other uses. The job corps center may not be everyone's first choice but it may well be the best choice in view of all the circumstances.

A Distraction

It does not appear that the United States has much of a case against Rhodesia for paraphrasing some of the statements in our own Declaration of Independence when declaring its independence from the United Kingdom.

The fact is we would have been against the Rhodesian action at this time for other and more substantial reasons. One is we do not wish trouble in Africa. Another is that we have recently taken a strong position in our own racial and civil rights problems which would become inconsistent if we supported Rhodesia. A third is we had earlier promised our support to Great Britain in this issue. In short our minds were closed. Digging up similarities now in the phrasing of Rhodesia's declaration of independence and our own is not pertinent. We would be exactly how we are if the Rhodesian declaration had only said, "Count us out." Our position in the matter was a priori and in fairness to our own thinking we should keep it that way.

We have not studied in detail the position of the United Kingdom in terms of its solution to the racial problem in Rhodesia. But we know that it is a fabian one and contemplates equal rights in terms of the indefinite future. We must remember that we altered our Constitution 100 years ago in favor of racial equality but today it is still elusive.

Rhodesia is an unhappy child of a long settled colonial policy. The area was originally inhabited by wild tribes. But it was Cecil Rhodes, a fortune hunter, who went in with the corporate blessing of Great Britain and staked out a substantial colony with only the lightest conversation with the aboriginal owners. Then sophisticated white citizens of Europe and Great Britain moved in to build a modern complex community. Now they do not wish what they have built to be dominated by what they feel to be backward aborigines. This is a natural feeling although not a moral one.

Wheel Tax Hike Carries

With only one dissenting vote, the City Council has approved a $2 hike in the city's wheel tax. Passenger car owners should know that they will not be alone in paying the higher rate. The increase runs through all 18 categories of vehicles, including a jump from $30 to $40 for 8-ton trucks.

Thus, the tax on passenger cars will stand at $8 for the calendar year beginning this coming January 1. Not even a small increase such as that is made without thought, as shown by the fact that the matter was not given unanimous council approval.

But the average driver will be hard put to muster up an effective argument against the increase. The hike will give the city an additional income of $135,000 per year, far short of $19 million in additional funds needed over the next 10 years to satisfy all street needs.

We all know that all street needs will never be satisfied. It would be nice if we could do this but experience shows us that demand consistently outstrips supply in just about all areas of public service.

The relatively small increase in revenue, however, does seem to be a most modest approach to the problem. It is highly doubtful that the general public will object to the increase and highly likely that resulting street improvement will be much appreciated.

Suggestions that the city use LB101 to finance improvements through bond issues may have a place in the future scheme of things but would not provide any additional revenue. The use of this form of financing simply is irrelevant to the problem of total availability of funds. The City Council could not have turned down the proposed increase if it intended to meet its responsibilities.

The Nation's Concern

The latest reports from the bedside are to the effect that General Dwight D. Eisenhower, former President of the United States, will recover satisfactorily from his present heart condition.

The nation joins in hoping that this is true. It rejoices over the progress back to health, for Mr. Eisenhower is that rare type of man who can maintain communication with everyone. His life and work and the honors it brought tend to remove him from the common touch, to erect a barrier of position and security. But every American feels that if his specialization did not intervene they would find in him the good neighbor, the friend and the constant well wisher. His greatness is a handicap in this sense.

In his times of trouble such as this present one the nation draws near to him. It is concerned with his good health. He is richly entitled to his late years. It is the time when he can almost be the plain good citizen, play his golf and enjoy his days. He has had lots of days in times past when every waking hour belonged not to him but to the American public and the world. And he gave that time without stint.

When any man reaches the ripe age of Mr. Eisenhower any illness must be considered serious even if it is just a bad cold. The fact that he had two serious heart attacks ten years ago adds to the uncertainty of this apparently less critical condition today.

The hope for his recovery runs very deep and strong in America and at this juncture it seems to be a justified hope.

Most South America Disapproves Of U.S.

WASHINGTON — The Rio de Janeiro Foreign Ministers Conference, opening today, finds most of the democratic leaders of the western hemisphere lined up against the United States, the military dictatorships behind us.

It also finds American policies in Latin America more on the spot than at any time since the 1920's when we landed Marines in Nicaragua, on top of earlier Marine landings in Haiti and Santo Domingo.

Much of the anti-American sentiment which will be voiced in the Rio conference results from the personality and policies of Tom Mann, the President's Texas friend whom he made assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin American affairs, and later promoted to be deputy under secretary of state.

On one occasion, President Johnson called in a group of Latin American ambassadors and, in an informal chat supposed to be strictly confidential, tried to sell them on Tom Mann. He described Mann as a brilliant, dedicated, but misunderstood individual.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Latin ambassadors went away still "misunderstanding" Mann. The President made no impression on them whatsoever. They regard Mann as too military-minded, much too quick on the draw, and a bad influence around a Texas-born President also inclined to shoot from the hip.

The two chief issues to be debated at the Rio conference will be:

1. The removal of the OAS headquarters from Washington so it won't be under the domination of the United States. This will probably fail.

2. Blocking any future Pan American police force. This will probably succeed.

For the first time in history a Pan American police force is operating in the Dominican Republic and, although it was hurriedly thrown together in order to take the curse off the American military occupation of that country, it could become an important precedent for Pan American stability and for use in revolt-torn countries.

If, for instance, Cuba should kick out Castro and a government vacuum exist there, the United States would like to have a Pan American police force which could be thrown in to restore order.

Such nations as Mexico, Chile, and Uruguay, however, are gravely suspicious of any Pan American army. They regard it as a concealed arm of U.S. militarism. The debate over it will be hot and heavy at Rio de Janeiro.

Senators Travel For Perspective

WASHINGTON — In the United States Senate every man may not be a king, but he is certainly his own foreign-affairs expert.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield spent an hour Monday with President Charles de Gaulle of France, a leading no-sayer to American policy. Mansfield is leading what the world press calls a "Senate world fact-finding group," backed by President Johnson.

This sounds impressive, and it is true that Mansfield and one of its two Republican members, Sen. George Aiken of Vermont, are both senior and serious members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But of the three juniors on hand, only one, Sen. Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, has a committee assignment related to the subject. He is on Armed Services.

With respect to Johnson's role, he really needs to have done nothing but wave the boys good-bye. Chairman J. William Fulbright of Senate Foreign Relations does not admire the Johnson policy in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. It is obvious that it suits the President's book to have the senators making up their own minds instead of deferring to Fulbright's great experience.

In Viet Nam, a splendidly courageous officer informed Sens. Edward Kennedy, Joseph Tydings and other VIPs that briefing all the important visitors was that dismal war's worst chore. This officer has not yet been transferred to the Aleutian island and without doubt would make a splendid ambassador to France or a trouble-shooter in Rhodesia.

Sen. Robert Kennedy is carrying the family flag to South America. Africa somehow seems rather less popular a resort and likely to be less so as the Rhodesian crisis develops.

One foreign-policy development few seem to worry about is the reported bid by the Ford Foundation to lure McGeorge Bundy from the White House to head its manifold activities. Said a leading senator: "If Johnson wants Bundy to stay as foreign-policy advisor, those foundation fellows will have to retreat or Johnson will discover that Wright Patman is right about all those foundation abuses Patman wants to correct."

Members of the Fulbright committee have been conscious for some time of a kind of erosion of their status, a feeling that they have little left but glamour in late years. A major reason is that foreign aid, military and domestic, is so large a part of American policy these days. This puts the Appropriations Committee in the driver's seat, and it has not been slow to take advantage of it.

One issue certain to be revived in the next session is the question of a watchdog committee for the Central Intelligence Agency. It cannot be argued that CIA only gathers facts; its operations in too many cases speak for themselves. Fulbright will be asked by committee members to hold hearings on the questions, and it seems destined to reach the Senate floor in any case.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Assert Control On News

WASHINGTON — On the three biggest news stories of the year — Viet Nam, the Dominican intervention, the economy — the suspicion is growing that the Johnson administration is telling considerably less than the truth. On the Dominican tangle the official version of why the United States sent in a force of 21,000 at the peak seems to be in direct variance with the facts.

The outcry over "managed news" that arose in the Kennedy administration had its phony side since officeholders from the time of Aristides the Just have done their best to put themselves in a good light. But the key word is credibility and when government fails to make its account believable with enough of the truth there is bound to be trouble.

Facts developed in a closed door investigation by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee into the Dominican crisis show by the testimony of administration witnesses that the United States had, even before the uprising in Santo Domingo, considered giving the military junta support. As reported by Max Frankel of the New York Times, the administration worked behind the scenes to bolster the military forces while still professing nonintervention. While the news account says the United States contemplated an attack to wipe out the rebel forces if they gained the upper hand, those who sat through all the hearings do not recall that any witnesses went that far. The testimony is still secret and only a majority vote of the committee can release it.

But what has been made known shows that in the first instance the announcement by the White House of the use of a large American force to rescue stranded Americans in Santo Domingo was a pretext for intervention to get a favorable government. It shows, too, that the criticism of the Dominican action by Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, is based largely on the still secret testimony.

The Fulbright criticism angered the administration so much that the White House sent a five-man Senate committee on a tour of world trouble spots without consulting the Foreign Relations chairman. This is widely interpreted as a public spanking for Fulbright, meant to isolate him.

On aluminum prices and the threat of heating up the economy with inflationary pressures the administration, in the view of many observers, has been less than candid. With American boys being drafted in ever larger numbers to fight and die in Viet Nam, the belief is that the public would have willingly accepted a clear declaration that unjustified price rises endanger not only the economy but the prosecution of the war and the future well-being of the nation.

The administration has had considerable success in holding down price levels, certainly in comparison with Europe, and it would have been a valid argument that this policy must not now be relaxed with the growing pressure of Viet Nam. But instead the administration engaged in double talk that seemed intended to obscure the issue of prices and inflation.

Whether the price increases now rescinded were inflationary or not was debatable. If the administration had met the issue head on, the debate would have helped to inform the country on the dangers inherent in the boom and how they can be met short of direct controls.

On the Vietnamese war the question of official information policy is more complicated. There can be no question but that the movement of additional American troops into the war zone must be held back. At the same time, however, the land war is rapidly escalating with the number of Americans on the ground now at at 160,000. There are rumors that this will go to 250,000 by next March or earlier.

In an atmosphere of growing uneasiness the public is beginning to ask how far this will go. Most of the official reports out of Viet Nam tell of American victories, "light" American casualties and large numbers of Viet Cong dead. The stress is almost entirely on American action in an American war with the role of the South Vietnamese army all but lost.

Where will it end and how will it end? What is the ultimate goal of the United States? These are the troubling questions that come to the fore with more and more insistence.

The President himself, more perhaps than any occupant of the White House in recent times, makes the government's information policy. By temperament and conviction he holds that all must be for the best in the best possible of worlds. This is part of his American—his Texas—heritage. But as enforced from top to bottom, it leaves little margin for debate and discussion and even less for the frank admission of human error.

The Answer

Milford, Neb.

It was refreshing in this frustrated era to find a high school girl with courage to leave the younger crowd and the yeh-yeh beat long enough to write a word of caution to some unknown person who might be contemplating leaving the "warmth of the old home" and accepting a theory which is fashionable but lacks security.

But Karla Rae Anderson knows the answer. Where did she find it? In science research? Discussion? Textbooks? No.

The answer came from parents who realized that the future does not depend on material things alone — from unsalaried church school teachers who gave of their time and energy — from ministers who dared to preach thet ruth. This faith sent martyrs to their deaths, sought and secured freedom of worship, compelled circuit riders to leave their families for weeks and months, knowing that perhaps they would never see them again. It survived the catacombs, the prison cells, dungeons and torture chambers. It is being tested today around the world as well as in our own dear nation, but it cannot be destroyed.

This faith will survive any attack. We should hold it tight, for others will attempt to destroy it. But it is the one sure thing in the world today. This is our eternal security.

Of this I am sure — as long as we have youth such as Karla Rae, America will always be free.

No Purpose

Lincoln, Neb.

If the human torches want to impress our military-industrial complex, they may as well save their matches because human life has never meant much to either army officers or capitalists. If the torches are trying to influence the government officials, they are again wasting themselves because the bureaucrats do not make policy; they are merely the lackeys of the economic establishment and are notoriously insensitive to anything except removal from office. Can the torches change policy by affecting public opinion? Not in our day of conditioned reflexes and social psychology; policy makes public opinion, not vice versa.

I can well understand a young man's horror at living in our kind of world, a world where large numbers of people die needless violent deaths each day, where callous rich grow wealthier by the hour, where taxes are squarely centered on the shoulders of the poor and middle classes, where world destruction is a constant threat, and where the same war is fought over and over for reasons no one seems to know. It really is a pretty horrible place but the worst thing about it is the realization that there is not a thing anyone can do about it.

The way for an individual to make himself felt used to be to organize but that's plain nonsense now. Any organization nowadays that gets beyond the bake-sale stage is neutralized by adroit publicity or secret police action. Our current labor unions are instruments of the military-industrial complex whose principal function is to keep the workers calm. Our political parties border on the ridiculous: the majority party is the weirdest collection of contraditions that has ever existed, and my own Republican party — which used to be the party for moderate, middle-class, decent Americans—has been taken over by comic-strip characters.

There just isn't any way any more for a young man or anyone else to express himself effectively. The net result of incinerating oneself is zero. It's just raw material for the communications industry. Nobody cares if you burn yourself. Self-immolation is certainly not going to have any effect on a good, money-making Democrat war that is eliminating unemployment, raising the standard of living, putting money in the pockets of the capitalists, and getting promotions and pretty ribbons for the military wheels.

I hope that nobody else incinerates himself under the mistaken impression that it does any good because it doesn't. Mr. Average Citizen has a lot more important things to think about, namely his own great big lovable self and his monthly payments. Even if Mr. Average Citizen did get upset, he couldn't do anything, anyway. A lot of Vietnamese have been shook up for a long time about their citizens getting napalmed but they can't do anything about it. Anyone who is considering burning himself (or his draft card) or carrying signs around should put those thoughts right out of his head and get a nice book of poetry and read it.

Blind Spot

Bennet, Neb.

The tide is turning. The small but noisy minority in favor of giving Viet Nam to the communists is rapidly losing its influence.

While respecting the rights of those who hold the pacifist position, we have a right to demand that they not establish a double standard which excuses the evils of the communist totalitarian forces in the world while condemning the actions of this country. If they fail to do this, then we have the right to wonder whether or not their pacifism is sincere.

For the most part, such persons seem to be without any beliefs of their own. Because they have no beliefs, they have no convictions. They find it hard to fit into the American tradition, built as it is on the firmest conviction of all, that we are endowed by our Creator with inalienable rights. Since they do not believe in a Creator, they do not believe that anything is inalienable. The state becomes their god, so they have no reason for limiting it, and they have a blind spot towards the evils of communism.

Base Use Progressing

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

With far less controversy than might have been expected, the future of the Lincoln Air Force Base is slowly coming into focus. Some time next summer, the Strategic Air Command will abandon in total its operations at the base and the city will face the prospect of what to do with the vast acreage that remains. At present, aviation and educational uses are in the forefront of city thinking.

More specifically, the base will become a first-class aviation operation under the Lincoln Airport Authority — a facility capable of handling any of the aviation needs of this community and area in the foreseeable future. There should be no argument with this. The purpose years ago in placing the municipal airport were it is was eventually to utilize the facilities to be abandoned by SAC. Too, the educational use of the base seems to be narrowed down at this time to a job corps center under sponsorship of Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha and the University of Nebraska, under auspices of the federal government.

The Original Intent

This educational use as a job corps center is somewhat controversial. Some people are uncertain of its social consequences since it would bring into Lincoln young people from all parts of the country who have been at the low end of the economic scale. Others have been uncertain as to the permanency of the installation, fearing that it is an expediency to meet a current economic situation that could change any time.

And finally, there are those who believe that the base should be devoted to industrial uses. They want something found for the base that would replace the big annual payroll that was there when 6,000 military people and supporting personnel manned the installation.

There is no one who can say for sure that such questions are right or wrong. But there are many considerations that ought to be taken into account. The matter of who will be brought into the community as a result of a job corps center is uncertain. It is true that those who avail themselves of the center opportunity for training are not currently equipped to make much of a go of it in the world. In short, they are having a hard time finding a job because they lack the qualifications business and industry are looking for. But it does not follow that these would be morally lax individuals. They would be basically young people with insufficient schooling or experience to qualify them for employment.

A great many of these people, given the assistance of training in such a center, will become productive and constructive members of society. They will become an asset to the community in which they live and the companies for which they work. Northern Natural itself would intend to use as many of these people as possible. Beyond this, the center should provide the Lincoln area with a labor pool that should be of assistance to it in its search for industry. The departure of the Strategic Air Command actually should produce some shortage of labor since many of the 6,000 military personnel or their wives held civilian jobs in Lincoln. No one would guarantee that Lincoln would not have a single unpleasant experience with the Job corps center but such is much more likely to be the exception rather than the rule.

As to permanency, the question is one that cannot be answered. The center could last for a couple of years or it could last indefinitely. Also, other things could evolve from the center such as expansion into services for the mentally retarded, private vocational education, a state vocational educational operation, an academic institution, etc.

As to industry, the desire to locate it at the base and actually getting it are two different things. We could wait a long time before we landed an industry for the base and, in the meantime, we would face the hard and costly job of maintaining the area. Many consider the base housing as an asset to industry when it might not be such at all.

There is no guarantee that people employed by industry that might locate at the base would want to live there. In fact, the chances are that they would want to live elsewhere. Also, Lincoln has an ample supply of industrial locations in areas other than the base. There are spot industrial locations available as well as the major, planned industrial sites of private individuals and the Chamber of Commerce. Lincoln is losing no industry as a result of shortage of sites. And the job corps will provide an immediate use of the base that might not be possible under any other circumstances.

Nor would the job corps take all the base. It is still possible that such a center be established and room remain at the base for industry, moving there of the State Fair or other uses. On one occasion, President Johnson called in a group of Latin American ambassadors and, in an informal chat supposed to be strictly confidential, tried to sell them on Tom Mann. He described Mann as a brilliant, dedicated, but misunderstood individual.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Latin ambassadors went away still "misunderstanding" Mann. The President made no impression on them whatsoever. They regard Mann as too military-minded, much too quick on the draw, and a bad influence around a Texas-born President also inclined to shoot from the hip.

The two chief issues to be debated at the Rio conference will be:

1. The removal of the OAS headquarters from Washington so it won't be under the domination of the United States. This will probably fail.

2. Blocking any future Pan American police force. This will probably succeed.

For the first time in history a Pan American police force is operating in the Dominican Republic and, although it was hurriedly thrown together in order to take the curse off the American military occupation of that country, it could become an important precedent for Pan American stability and for use in revolt-torn countries.

If, for instance, Cuba should kick out Castro and a government vacuum exist there, the United States would like to have a Pan American police force which could be thrown in to restore order.

Such nations as Mexico, Chile, and Uruguay, however, are gravely suspicious of any Pan American army. They regard it as a concealed arm of U.S. militarism. The debate over it will be hot and heavy at Rio de Janeiro.

Senators Travel For Perspective

WASHINGTON — In the United States Senate every man may not be a king, but he is certainly his own foreign-affairs expert.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield spent an hour Monday with President Charles de Gaulle of France, a leading no-sayer to American policy. Mansfield is leading what the world press calls a "Senate world fact-finding group," backed by President Johnson.

This sounds impressive, and it is true that Mansfield and one of its two Republican members, Sen. George Aiken of Vermont, are both senior and serious members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But of the three juniors on hand, only one, Sen. Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, has a committee assignment related to the subject. He is on Armed Services.

With respect to Johnson's role, he really needs to have done nothing but wave the boys good-bye. Chairman J. William Fulbright of Senate Foreign Relations does not admire the Johnson policy in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. It is obvious that it suits the President's book to have the senators making up their own minds instead of deferring to Fulbright's great experience.

In Viet Nam, a splendidly courageous officer informed Sens. Edward Kennedy, Joseph Tydings and other VIPs that briefing all the important visitors was that dismal war's worst chore. This officer has not yet been transferred to the Aleutian island and without doubt would make a splendid ambassador to France or a trouble-shooter in Rhodesia.

Sen. Robert Kennedy is carrying the family flag to South America. Africa somehow seems rather less popular a resort and likely to be less so as the Rhodesian crisis develops.

One foreign-policy development few seem to worry about is the reported bid by the Ford Foundation to lure McGeorge Bundy from the White House to head its manifold activities. Said a leading senator: "If Johnson wants Bundy to stay as foreign-policy advisor, those foundation fellows will have to retreat or Johnson will discover that Wright Patman is right about all those foundation abuses Patman wants to correct."

☆ ☆ ☆

Members of the Fulbright committee have been conscious for some time of a kind of erosion of their status, a feeling that they have little left but glamour in late years. A major reason is that foreign aid, military and domestic, is so large a part of American policy these days. This puts the Appropriations Committee in the driver's seat, and it has not been slow to take advantage of it.

One issue certain to be revived in the next session is the question of a watchdog committee for the Central Intelligence Agency. It cannot be argued that CIA only gathers facts; its operations in too many cases speak for themselves. Fulbright will be asked by committee members to hold hearings on the questions, and it seems destined to reach the Senate floor in any case.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Assert Control On News

WASHINGTON — On the three biggest news stories of the year — Viet Nam, the Dominican intervention, the economy — the suspicion is growing that the Johnson administration is telling considerably less than the truth. On the Dominican tangle the official version of why the United States sent in a force of 21,000 at the peak seems to be in direct variance with the facts.

The outcry over "managed news" that arose in the Kennedy administration had its phony side since officeholders from the time of Aristides the Just have done their best to put themselves in a good light. But the key word is credibility and when government fails to make its account believable with enough of the truth there is bound to be trouble.

Facts developed in a closed door investigation by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee into the Dominican crisis show by the testimony of administration witnesses that the United States had, even before the uprising in Santo Domingo, considered giving the military junta support. As reported by Max Frankel of the New York Times, the administration worked behind the scenes to bolster the military forces while still professing nonintervention. While the news account says the United States contemplated an attack to wipe out the rebel forces if they gained the upper hand, those who sat through all the hearings do not recall that any witnesses went that far. The testimony is still secret and only a majority vote of the committee can release it.

But what has been made known shows that in the first instance the announcement by the White House of the use of a large American force to rescue stranded Americans in Santo Domingo was a pretext for intervention to get a favorable government. It shows, too, that the criticism of the Dominican action by Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, is based largely on the still secret testimony.

The Fulbright criticism angered the administration so much that the White House sent a five-man Senate committee on a tour of world trouble spots without consulting the Foreign Relations chairman. This is widely interpreted as a public spanking for Fulbright, meant to isolate him.

On aluminum prices and the threat of heating up the economy with inflationary pressures the administration, in the view of many observers, has been less than candid. With American boys being drafted in ever larger numbers to fight and die in Viet Nam, the belief is that the public would have willingly accepted a clear declaration that unjustified price rises endanger not only the economy but the prosecution of the war and the future well-being of the nation.

The administration has had considerable success in holding down price levels, certainly in comparison with Europe, and it would have been a valid argument that this policy must not now be relaxed with the growing pressure of Viet Nam. But instead the administration engaged in double talk that seemed intended to obscure the issue of prices and inflation.

Whether the price increases now rescinded were inflationary or not was debatable. If the administration had met the issue head on, the debate would have helped to inform the country on the dangers inherent in the boom and how they can be met short of direct controls.

On the Vietnamese war the question of official information policy is more complicated. There can be no question but that the movement of additional American troops into the war zone must be held back. At the same time, however, the land war is rapidly escalating with the number of Americans on the ground now put at 160,000. There are rumors that this will go to 250,000 by next March or earlier.

In an atmosphere of growing uneasiness the public is beginning to ask how far this will go. Most of the official reports out of Viet Nam tell of American victories, "light" American casualties and large numbers of Viet Cong dead. The stress is almost entirely on American action in an American war with the role of the South Vietnamese army all but lost.

Where will it end and how will it end? What is the ultimate goal of the United States? These are the troubling questions that come to the fore with more and more insistence.

The President himself, more perhaps than any occupant of the White House in recent times, makes the government's information policy. By temperament and conviction he holds that all must be for the best in the best possible of worlds. This is part of his American—his Texas—heritage. But as enforced from top to bottom, it leaves little margin for debate and discussion and even less for the frank admission of human error.

The Answer

Milford, Neb.

It was refreshing in this frustrated era to find a high school girl with courage to leave the younger crowd and the yeh-yeh beat long enough to write a word of caution to some unknown person who might be contemplating leaving the "warmth of the old home" and accepting a theory which is fashionable but lacks security.

But Karla Rae Anderson knows the answer. Where did she find it? In science research? Discussion? Textbooks? No.

The answer came from parents who realized that the future does not depend on material things alone — from unsalaried church school teachers who gave of their time and energy — from ministers who dared to preach thet ruth. This faith sent martyrs to their deaths, sought and secured freedom of worship, compelled circuit riders to leave their families for weeks and months, knowing that perhaps they would never see them again. It survived the catacombs, the prison cells, dungeons and torture chambers. It is being tested today around the world as well as in our own dear nation, but it cannot be destroyed.

This faith will survive any attack. We should hold it tight, for others will attempt to destroy it. But it is the one sure thing in the world today. This is our eternal security.

Of this I am sure — as long as we have youth such as Karla Rae, America will always be free.

No Purpose

Lincoln, Neb.

If the human torches want to impress our military-industrial complex, they may as well save their matches because human life has never meant much to either army officers or capitalists. If the torches are trying to influence the government officials, they are again wasting themselves because the bureaucrats do not make policy; they are merely the lackeys of the economic establishment and are notoriously insensitive to anything except removal from office. Can the torches change policy by affecting public opinion? Not in our day of conditioned reflexes and social psychology; policy makes public opinion, not vice versa.

I can well understand a young man's horror at living in our kind of world, a world where large numbers of people die needless violent deaths each day, where callous rich grow wealthier by the hour, where taxes are squarely centered on the shoulders of the poor and middle classes, where world destruction is a constant threat, and where the same war is fought over and over for reasons no one seems to know. It really is a pretty horrible place but the worst thing about it is the realization that there is not a thing anyone can do about it.

The way for an individual to make himself felt used to be to organize but that's plain nonsense now. Any organization nowadays that gets beyond the bake-sale stage is neutralized by adroit publicity or secret police action. Our current labor unions are instruments of the military-industrial complex whose principal function is to keep the workers calm. Our political parties border on the ridiculous: the majority party is the weirdest collection of contraditions that has ever existed, and my own Republican party — which used to be the party for moderate, middle-class, decent Americans—has been taken over by comic-strip characters.

There just isn't any way any more for a young man or anyone else to express himself effectively. The net result of incinerating oneself is zero. it's just raw material for the communications industry. Nobody cares if you burn yourself. Self-immolation is certainly not going to have any effect on a good, money-making Democrat war that is eliminating unemployment, raising the standard of living, putting money in the pockets of the capitalists, and getting promotions and pretty ribbons for the military wheels.

I hope that nobody else incinerates himself under the mistaken impression that it does any good because it doesn't. Mr. Average Citizen has a lot more important things to think about, namely his own great big lovable self and his monthly payments. Even if Mr. Average Citizen did get upset, he couldn't do anything, anyway. A lot of Vietnamese have been shook up for a long time about their citizens getting napalmed but they can't do anything about it. Anyone who is considering burning himself (or his draft card) or carrying signs around should put those thoughts right out of his head and get a nice book of poetry and read it.

Blind Spot

Bennet, Neb.

The tide is turning. The small but noisy minority in favor of giving Viet Nam to the communists is rapidly losing its influence.

While respecting the rights of those who hold the pacifist position, we have a right to demand that they not establish a double standard which excuses the evils of the communist totalitarian forces in the world while condemning the actions of this country. If they fail to do this, then we have the right to wonder whether or not their pacifism is sincere.

For the most part, such persons seem to be without any beliefs of their own. Because they have no beliefs, they have no convictions. They find it hard to fit into the American tradition, built as it is on the firmest conviction of all, that we are endowed by our Creator with inalienable rights. Since they do not believe in a Creator, they do not believe that anything is inalienable. The state becomes their god, so they have no reason for limiting it, and they have a blind spot towards the evils of communism.

Encouraging New Nursing Home Sponsors Advocated

The medical facilities chief for the State Health Department Tuesday said an "orderly and continuing" program of improvement in Nebraska homes for the aged can best be realized by encouraging new project sponsors, not by penalizing current violators.

Verne A. Pangborn predicted that even with a strong effort, it will take 20 years to build "decent, safe and sanitary homes for the aged at all levels of care" in the state.

Pangborn made the comments in a report to Gov. Frank Morrison in answer to information sent to the governor by the Nebraska Nursing Home Association in which the association claimed rules and regulations for homes for the aged were not being properly enforced.

The association urged enactment of more severe penalties for violators of the rules and regulations.

"The homes for the aged are relatively in a similar position as were hospitals during the late '40's," Pangborn said. "We are still struggling with some serious hospital problems after almost 20 years of strenous effort by the people of the state, the expending, on the average, of $4 million per year, not counting state hospital construction, during this time.

"An orderly and continuing program in building decent, safe and sanitary homes for the aged, at all levels of care, will require similar efforts over the next two decades."

The association called for establishment of a higher degree of communications between adminstrators of homes and state officials, and Pangborn replied, "we are very receptive to all efforts at communication."

The association recommended county welfare departments verify the level of assistance given patients and that these patients are housed in facilities that can offer the proper level of care.

The association in its report listed 10 homes in eight communities—Grand Island, Omaha, Lincoln, Aurora, Neligh, Plainview, Meadow Grove and O'Neill — which it claimed were violating rules and regulations governing homes for the elderly.

Pangborn said his inspectors investigated each charge and found only one violation, operation of a non-licensed home by Mrs. Elsie Carrell of Plainview.

Pangborn said Mrs. Carrell has been asked to apply for a state license and to submit a floor plan of the home for review.

Rome (AP)—A barnyard census reveals that Italy last year had 9 million cattle, 8.7 million sheep and goats, 5.2 million pigs, 1 million horses and 9 million domestic fowl.

Eagles usually return to the same nest year after year, rebuilding and adding material to it. One famous nest in Ohio served as an eagle home for 35 years. It measured 12 feet in depth and 8½ feet across the top. When it finally fell to the ground, it was estimated to contain two tons of sticks.

Water Master Plan, Legislation Pushed

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

New legislation and a master plan for the control and conservation of water were urged Tuesday before the Legislative Council's Committee on Water.

The problem was generally outlined by members and experts before the committee split into three subcommittees for further study.

Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice said Nebraska's "greatest single resource is water," but the state has been "in a Rip Van Winkle-like trance" regarding planning for its use.

Must Be 'Equitable'

"We've got to treat water as a single resource—not as surface water or as ground water," he said. "Agricultural and industrial use of water must be put on a more equitable plane."

"I wouldn't trade Nebraska's water for all the oil in Texas," he said, "but it must be used for the greatest good for all."

Sen. Stan Matzke of Milford said anti-pollution measures should be part of conservation.

Matzke, elected committee vice chairman said the economic value of water between users must be considered.

"It's worth for industry may be many hundreds of dollars greater than for agriculture," he said, "and this must be balanced out in developing the state's greatest potential."

'Should Be Separated'

State Geologist E. C. Reed said ground and surface water should be separated in needed legislation and planning "to make the best use of our supply."

Reed said Nebraska needs to develop a state plan before a federal plan is superimposed on the state.

The geologist said some 7.5 million acre-feet of water leaves the state annually.

He agreed with Matzke who said, "Some irrigators pump water out of the ground, letting it wastefully overflow irrigation ditches and run off to the Gulf of Mexico."

Noting the current emphasis on water for recreation, Reed said. "Water is too valuable for just recreational use. Recreation should be a part of a multiple-use project."

More Important Uses

He also suggested "more important uses for water exist" than in the proposed recreational and navigational aid uses in connection with the proposed dam on the lower Platte River.

Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora said regardless of what recommendations come out of the committee as to legislation, it will take "15 years of hard work to get an effective program going."

"This can be the most important study ever made," he said, "because water is the greatest and most critical resource in Nebraska's future."

The committee, headed by Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, divided into these study subcommittees:

—Ground water, pump irrigation: Sens. H.C. Crandall of Curtis, George Gerdes of Alliance, William Wylie of Elgin and Kremer, chairman.

—Stream flow, gravity irrigation: Sens. Albert Kjar of Lexington, Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, Frank Nelson of O'Neill and Matzke, chairman.

—Water users, municipal, agricultural and industrial: Sens. Jerome Warner of Waverly, Pat Moulton and George Syas, both of Omaha, and Carstens, chairman.

Reclamation District Plan Hearing Set

State Water Resources Director Dan Jones Tuesday set Feb. 10 for a public hearing in Lincoln on a petition to form a three-county reclamation district in central Nebraska.

Land owners in parts of Greeley, Nance and Boone counties have petitioned Jones to approve formation of the district, which would cover 26,800 acres of irrigable land in the Cedar River valley.

The district would be the fifth and smallest one established in Nebraska.

Jones said sponsors have proposed irrigation projects costing a total of nearly $34 million for the proposed district, which would take its water from Cedar River, a tributary of the Loup River.

If Jones approves the petition, voters in the district must also give approval before the district has authority to levy a tax.

Jones said he probably will approve of formation of the district unless a protesting petition carrying signatures of 30% of the voters in the proposed district is filed or protestants can prove that the proposed district does not qualify under state law.

The district, which would be called the Cedar Valley Reclamation District, would have authority to levy up to one mill in taxes until water is delivered, after which a three mill levy could be imposed.

Lag In Mapping Sea Floor Told By Naval Officer

"Mapping of the sea is as advanced today as mapping of the land was in the early 1700s," U.S. Navy submarine officer Lt. Cmdr. Donald L. Keach said in a talk to Navy ROTC students at the University of Nebraska.

His talk was part of the Lincoln Aerospace Clinic, sponsored by the Lincoln Public Schools, which is being held this week.

Keach, a former commander of the Navy's bathyscaph Trieste, emphasized the need for deep-sea research to discover food and mineral sources.

He said the fact that "only two per cent of the ocean's floor has been adequately charted" has hindered progress. He also compared our present deep-sea submergence equipment with "Model T's."

The clinic continues through Friday with programs at various Lincoln schools. The clinics deal with "Aerospace Highlights," "Frontiers of Our Time," "Problems and Potentials of the Space Age," and "Seniors, Science and Space."

Home Health Care Backed By Group

. . . HOSPITAL COUNCIL ACTS

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Home Health care for indigent and non-indigent persons came under the scrutiny of the Lincoln Health and Hospital Council Tuesday, and members moved to promote its establishment in the community.

In a formal resolution the council "endorsed the desirability of the Lincoln community having available a home care service to care for both indigent and non-indigents."

The council also appointed three members, Robert Simon, Mrs. Ruth Hill and Gilbert Laws, to meet with the Non-Hospital Care Committee of the Lincoln Community Council.

Deactivated

Dr. Kenneth Rose led the presentation to the hospital council, informing the members that a home care service once existed in Lincoln under the auspices of the Red Cross, but shortly after it was transferred to the City-County Health Department it deactivated.

The committee has proposed a visiting nurses program which would provide medical treatment prescribed by the patient's doctor, but even partial Community Chest financing at this time is impossible, Community Council Executive Director Harold Baker told the group.

Dr. G. R. Underwood, city-county health director, who had opposed the visiting nurses program when presented to the health board, agreed with Rose that there is a need in the community for the service.

'Administrative Monstrosity'

But, he said, it becomes an "administrative monstrosity to have to budget." Under the law, he added, it is not legal for the health department to receive fees for services.

Home care supporters had proposed that the service be sponsored by the health board.

Rose informed the council that a proposal would be made to the Lincoln Community Council Thursday concerning the nursing service, noting that there is $78,000 available to the state "to expedite the establishment or improvement of home health service."

The city is in line to receive a share of these funds, he said, if it has a plan written by Dec. 1.

Miss De Los Angeles Projects Joy In Concert

By RUTH ARDIS

Victoria de los Angeles brought the music of the angels from her native Spain to Lincoln Symphony Orchestra patrons Tuesday night.

It was an exciting concert —not only because of her beautiful voice and superb musicianship but also because of her charm and the projection of her joy in singing for the large, enthusiastic audience.

Miss De los Angeles possesses a voice of great purity and surprising range. As she demonstrated in many of her songs but especially in Schumann's "Aus den hebraischen Gesangren," she can drop from one voice level to another with amazing control.

Voice Full

Her voice was as full in the low register as in the thrilling impassioned climax of Schumann's "Ich grolle nicht" and Brahms' "Meine Liebe ist grun."

The opening group of arias by Scarlatti, Pergolesi, and Handel were sung with classic perfection and minute attention to phrasing and coloring.

Miss De los Angeles' mezza-voce, with its shaded dynamics, was especially effective in conveying the intimacy of the mood of three songs by Faure. This French composer who was master of the miniature, used surprising modulations in the accompaniments to set off the vocal lines.

Mood Caught

A closing group of Spanish songs by Granados, Nin, de Falla, Montsalvatge, and Rodrigo was fresh and appealing. The mood of each work was caught with the subtlest of inflections, not only vocally but also by the facial expression and stage manner. Paul Berg's accompaniments were especially outstanding on the difficult songs of De Falla.

For her second encore, the soloist returned to the stage with her Spanish guitar and sang in flamenco style to her own accompaniment. This provided a delightful ending for the recital.

Author, Artist Alex King Dies In New York Hospital

New York (AP) — Alexander King, an acid-tongued artist and author who became nationally famous after frequent appearances on television died Tuesday of a heart attack. He was 66.

King had appeared on television earlier in the day to publicize his new book, "Rich Man, Poor Man, Freud and Fruit," published Monday, then became ill at his Manhattan apartment.

He died at Lenox Hill Hospital.

King first came into wide public acclaim in 1958 after the publication of a book entitled "Mine Enemy Grows Older." Jack Paar invited him for an appearance on his late night television show.

King captivated the audience and Paar, became a frequent guest on the show and put book after book on the best seller list.

But despite his gentle appearance, King's mind and tongue belied him.

His gripes and peeves were endless, and he was apt to take off on the spur of the moment at anything that happened to be on his mind then, from women to drug addiction to art to sex.

King spoke five languages, wrote eight plays and six books, had been in a federal narcotics hospital and several jails.

He talked constantly in public, and once said of himself:

"I have no great messianic desire to talk. I just do it to sell my book, which costs $4.50, and that's no hairnet, you know. Besides, I used to throw away all this stuff for nothing, and now I get paid for it."

His wife was from Chadron, Neb.

Tornado Kills One In Canton

By United Press International

Tornadoes skipped through Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia Tuesday night, killing at least one person, sending several others to hospitals and demolishing many buildings.

The tornadoes came after the first big snowstorm of the fall hit the Midwest, dumping up to a foot of snow and dropping the temperature below zero. Southern California had more than a half foot of rain.

The hard winds blew over a house trailer at Canton, Ohio, and killed the occupant. Between 15 and 20 persons were hospitalized in Canton and several children were missing.

The hardest hit town was Maximo, Ohio, southeast of Canton, where several homes were either destroyed or damaged.

Cairo Children Drown

Cairo (AP) — Nine children—eight teen-age girls and one boy — drowned Tuesday when a small ferry capsized in an irrigation stream 100 miles north of Cairo. Before rescue squads reached the scene farmers plunged into the water and saved 11.

Home Health Care Backed By Group

. . . HOSPITAL COUNCIL ACTS

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Home Health care for indigent and non-indigent persons came under the scrutiny of the Lincoln Health and Hospital Council Tuesday, and members moved to promote its establishment in the community.

In a formal resolution the council "endorsed the desirability of the Lincoln community having available a home care service to care for both indigent and non-indigents."

The council also appointed three members, Robert Simon, Mrs. Ruth Hill and Gilbert Laws, to meet with the Non-Hospital Care Committee of the Lincoln Community Council.

Deactivated

Dr. Kenneth Rose led the presentation to the hospital council, informing the members that a home care service once existed in Lincoln under the auspices of the Red Cross, but shortly after it was transferred to the City-County Health Department it deactivated.

The committee has proposed a visiting nurses program which would provide medical treatment prescribed by the patient's doctor, but even partial Community Chest financing at this time is impossible, Community Council Executive Director Harold Baker told the group.

Dr. G. R. Underwood, city-county health director, who had opposed the visiting nurses program when presented to the health board, agreed with Rose that there is a need in the community for the service.

'Administrative Monstrosity'

But, he said, it becomes an "administrative monstrosity to have to budget." Under the law, he added, it is not legal for the health department to receive fees for services.

Home care supporters had proposed that the service be sponsored by the health board.

Rose informed the council that a proposal would be made to the Lincoln Community Council Thursday concerning the nursing service, noting that there is $78,000 available to the state "to expedite the establishment or improvement of home health service."

The city is in line to receive a share of these funds, he said, if it has a plan written by Dec. 1.

Miss De Los Angeles Projects Joy In Concert

By RUTH ARDIS

Victoria de los Angeles brought the music of the angels from her native Spain to Lincoln Symphony Orchestra patrons Tuesday night.

It was an exciting concert—not only because of her beautiful voice and superb musicianship but also because of her charm and the projection of her joy in singing for the large, enthusiastic audience.

Miss De los Angeles possesses a voice of great purity and surprising range. As she demonstrated in many of her songs but especially in Schumann's "Aus den hebraischen Gesangren," she can drop from one voice level to another with amazing control.

Voice Full

Her voice was as full in the low register as in the thrilling impassioned climax of Schumann's "Ich grolle nicht" and Brahms' "Meine Liebe ist grun."

The opening group of arias by Scarlatti, Pergolesi, and Handel were sung with classic perfection and minute attention to phrasing and coloring.

Prexy Declares College Must Lead Rights Fight

Minneapolis, Minn. (AP) — Public colleges and universities have no choice but to lead the fight for civil rights in this country, President John A. Hannah of Michigan State University said Tuesday.

Hannah, who also is chairman of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, said, "Public universities would disown their heritage and deny their purpose if now they were to remain aloof—They are and must be in this fight to the end."

In an address to the annual convention of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges Hannah said only the public and private universities have the resources to do the job that needs to be done.

Brilliant Array

"No other combination of agencies—not all our community relations commissions, not all of our legislatures, not all of our federal government—can muster such an array of brilliant and useful talent."

Hannah also emphasized that the land-grant institutions were established more than a century ago "specifically to serve the underprivileged of that day—the sons of farmers, and mechanics and shopkeepers who were being denied equal opportunity for liberal and practical education . . .'

That, he said, "should give us all of the justification we need for undertaking this new assignment."

Easy To Shirk

Some institutions, he said, are exerting only a token effort, and he added, "Let us make no mistake, it would be easy to shirk.

"A university need only take shelter behind high standards of admission, or use them cynically to screen out those who have mental capacity, but who have been poorly prepared for college through no fault of their own."

"If my years of experience have taught me one thing," he said, "it is that problems of civil rights will be solved not by national programs, but by local programs; not by federal action, but by community action.

Each Has Its Own

"Michigan must deal with the problem of 500,000 Negroes in Detroit; Illinois must deal with the problems of the more than 800,000 Negroes in Chicago; California must deal with the 400,000 Negroes in Los Angeles; Pennsylvania with the more than 500,000 Negroes in Philadelphia; Ohio with the 250,000 in Cleveland; and New York must deal with the problems of the more than one million Negroes in New York City.

"The civil rights problem must be solved where it is."

"This throws the problem directly back to us in the state universities and land-grant colleges, to us who boast that the boundaries of the campus are the boundaries of the state, and that we are the servants of all of the people."

'66 Sugar Quota Is Proposed

Washington (AP) — The Agriculture Department has proposed 1966 sugar quotas of 9.8 million short tons, including a foreign import limit of 1.7 million tons for the first six months of the year.

The quotas, announced Monday, divide the American market legislation designed to stabilize price and supply.

Rhodesia was not included in the 1966 quota program, although normally it would have been allocated 6,094 tons. The U.S. has suspended diplomatic relations with that country because of its recent declaration of independence from Britain.

Under next year's program, raw sugar imports from foreign countries will be limited to 700,000 tons during the first three months and to a total of 1.7 million tons during the first six months.

The restrictions were imposed to prevent U.S. markets from being flooded by huge quantities of foreign sugar at a time when its prices are higher than world prices.

The major domestic quota will go to the domestic beet area, a total of 3,025,000 tons.

The 1965 over-all quota was 9.9 million tons.

Senators Call On Poland's Top Diplomat

Warsaw, Poland (AP) — A group of U.S. senators led by majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., called on Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki Tuesday. It was believed the war in Viet Nam was the chief topic of discussion.

The group also met Deputy Foreign Trade Minister Franciszek Modrzewski and other Polish officials.

Mansfield declined comment on the purpose of the visit, but diplomatic sources said the group is on a fact-finding mission concerning Viet Nam. They leave Wednesday for Moscow. From there they will go to Bucharest and Southeast Asia.

With Mansfield on the trip are Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine; George D. Aiken, R-Vt.; Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del.

Frontier Airlines Ten-Month Net Profit $979,704

Denver (AP) — Frontier Airlines reported Tuesday net profit for the first 10 months of this year amounted to $979,704, or 77 cents per share of common stock.

Net earnings in the same period of 1964 were $782,075, or 62 cents per share.

October net profit of $122,194 was 42% higher than the $86,140 figure for the same month a year ago.

Suspect's Hearing Is Brief

Charged With Bank Holdup

Omaha (AP) — Gregory Albert White, 52-year-old Chicago transient, waived preliminary hearing Tuesday on a federal charge he took more than $18,000 in a holdup at Omaha's First National Bank.

"I'd just as soon go ahead and get it all over with," he told Chief Federal District Judge Richard Robinson during a brief in-chambers hearing.

White, a small man wearing patched blue jeans and muddy shoes, is charged on three counts. He would be sentenced to 25 years imprisonment and fined $10,000 or both.

He appeared before Judge Robinson in the absence of a U.S. commissioner. The judge several times asked White if he did not want counsel, but each time he replied he did not, saying once: "I don't think a lawyer would do me any good."

Arraignment Wednesday

He is scheduled for arraignment Wednesday.

The robbery took place just after 11 a.m. Monday and White was in custody about five hours later.

A suspicious cab driver started the chain of events that led to White being charged with the robbery. Cab driver Harry A. Stanley said he was driving White about South Omaha when White's intense nervousness made the driver suspicious.

When the cab passed a police cruiser, Stanley hailed the officers.

White fled but officers Larry Chalfant and Ken Tyler quickly ran him down.

Fremont Man New President Of Nurserymen

Ralph Shugert, Fremont, Tuesday was elected president of the Nebraska Association of Nurserymen as that group's annual two-day meeting drew to a close in Lincoln.

Shugert

Shugert, vice president of the group last year, replaces Don Schultz, Lincoln.

Glenn Hyde, Gothenberg, was elected vice president while Jim Elliott was retained as secretary-treasurer.

$1,000 To Hastings

Hastings (UPI) — Hastings College has received a $1,000 grant from the Cooper Foundation of Lincoln to use for scholarships in the 1965-66 school year, Marvin Fink, vice president of the college, announced. The Cooper Foundation, affiliated with the Cooper theaters, has given the college several grants in previous years. Last year the college also received $1,000 in financial aid.

Airport Authority Okays Base Plan

. . . JOB CORPS INCLUDED

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Airport Authority members put the final stamp of approval Tuesday on the Lincoln Opportunity Team resolution outlining use plans for the soon-to-be deactivated Lincoln Air Force Base.

The action clears the way for the resolution describing proposed uses as aviation and education connected, along with a cover letter and base use map, to be sent to Donald Bradford, director of the Office of Economic Adjustment in the Department of Defense.

With the base use plan, Bradford can launch the formal process of getting the federal land of the Air Force base declared excess and, hopefully, reverted back to the city, Chamber of Commerce President Tom Pansing said.

Most Owned By City

Most of the land is owned by the city of Lincoln and leased to the federal government, but when the land is returned, use and occupancy is assigned to the Airport Authority.

Questions about the lease arrangement if part of the property is to be used by the Job Corps, as proposed in the plan, still must be answered by the Department of Defense, Pansing pointed out. Some indication about the lease question, the declaration of excess and proposed uses is expected "at least" by Dec. 1, he said.

Hold lists on the moveable property at the base which may be needed either by the airport Authority to operate the aviation activities, the Nebraska Air National Guard, and the University of Nebraska and Northern Natural Gas Co. for the Job Corps also will be forwarded in the next few days, he added.

The Airport Authority, like the City Council, had some reservations about the air base and re-use plans. Members expressed fear that the authority would be saddled with the Air base and no means of producting revenue to support it.

Conditioned

However, Authority member Chauncey Barney, who also is on the Mayor's Advisory Committee to the opportunity team assured other members that Job Corps use is "conditioned upon the physical return of the property to the city."

Authority Chairman Fred Eiche declared, "If the Job Corps turned out to be detrimental to the operation and jeopardized the possibility of obtaining equipment or revenue to operate the airport, I don't see how we could get along with the Job Corps."

This means being compatible with the airport operation and reaching satisfactory terms for rental of the property, he emphasized.

The resolution requests the recipient of any property-producing airport revenue to be the Airport Authority, Barney told the members.

The authority adopted a $12,500 budget to match funds set aside by the City Council to finance employment of a local consultant and operation costs. Eiche was directed to work with the mayor to hire such a person.

Herrington In Line

Fred A. Herrington, former Nebraska tax commissioner is being considered for the position.

In other action, the authority heard a request by its executive director, Rolland Harr, to employ an assistant and establish a committee to investigate the need and possibility of hiring additional staff.

Harr told Authority members that assistance would be needed during the transitional period of the Air Force base, and the new person also would help in supervising maintenance personnel and operations.

He has considered a retired Air Force man, familiar with the base, for the job, he said.

It also was announced Tuesday that Frontier Airlines will have all but one Lincoln flight served by jet-propelled aircraft starting Dec. 15, and two new flights will allow better connections to Denver, Kansas City and St. Louis.

During October there were 17,940 aircraft operations at the municipal airport, compared to 17,073 in the same month in 1964.

NU Students Will Be 'Sold' To Aid Needy

Needy families in Lincoln will get extra food Thanksgiving morning as the result of a "slave day" being planned by two University of Nebraska student groups for Saturday.

Members of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity will sell their services between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. that day, asking that they be paid in canned goods.

The food will then be distributed Thanksgiving morning to families listed by the Red Cross as needy.

All student members of both groups will participate. They'll do any kind of work, from car washing to household and yard chores.

Committee members are Sally McGee, Vicki Umberger, Roger Beverage and Bob Myhren.

LBJ To Ask Legislation To Fight Jury Injustice

Washington (AP) — President Johnson said Tuesday night he will ask Congress in January for legislation "to prevent injustice to Negroes at the hands of all-white juries."

"We intend to make the jury box, in both state and federal courts, the sacred domain of justice under law," Johnson said.

He spoke to delegates here to plan for a White House civil rights conference next spring.

Johnson described the jury as "the cornerstone of our system of justice," adding:

"If its composition is a sham, its judgment is a sham. And when that happens, justice itself is a fraud, casting off the blindfold and tipping the scales one way for whites and another way for Negroes.

Lowndes Included

Johnson noted that the government has already moved to join in three suits which, he said, challenge a biased system of jury selection. These actions include one in Lowndes County, Ala., and are based on the grounds that Negroes have been deliberately excluded from jury service.

"But we must do more. We will do more," Johnson said.

Then he said he has asked the attorney general "to prepare jury legislation that is clear in its purpose and specific in its aim."

Johnson said the work of the civil rights conference "will affect the future of over 200 million people."

Not Theories

"For you will not be dealing with the abstractions of political science," he said, "you will be dealing with human lives—and each life lost through racial hatred, each life diminished by blind prejudice, saps the strength of a great nation."

While more than 200,000 Negores have been registered to vote under the 1965 Voting Rights Act, Johnson said many hundreds of thousands have not.

He added, "This is a challenge not only to government, but to Negro leadership. I urge you to work around the clock. Tell those who have been barred from the polls that a new day has come that at last they may have a voice in shaping their own destinies. That voice will be heard from the sheriff's office to the halls of Congress — but only if it is used."

District 160 Asks Court Action To Get Funds From 155

School District 160 asked Lancaster District Court Tuesday to order former board members of District 155 and the Panama State Bank to transfer the funds formerly a part of District 155 to the Norris District (160) to which 155 was annexed.

The Norris district contends that the defendants have refused to turn over and deliver to the plaintiff the demand deposit of District 155 in the Panama Bank in the sum of $3,421.15.

The district alleges that as a result of an order entered by County Schools Superintendent Glenn Turner Aug. 24, that District 160 is entitled to assets of District 155 and the pending court proceedings brought by objectors to the school merger have no effect on such transfer.

Norris contends that it has been forced to assume, acknowledge and pay the liabilities of District 155, and the funds it alleges should be transferred are necessary in the continuation of the operation of the school and the education of the children.

Rights Forum Set Thursday Noon

A civil rights forum will be conducted during the regular meeting of the international student luncheon Thursday noon at the United Campus Christian Fellowship (UCCF) Hall, 333 No. 14th.

Forum members will include Charles Stephen, minister of the Unitarian Church; Alan Pickering, UCCF director, Hudson Phillips, UCCF program director; John Campbell, student at Agribusiness School and Tony Bryan University of Nebraska student.

Gene Pokorny, president of the local chapter of Friends of SNCC, will moderate.

The public is invited to attend the noon meal and forum.

MEADOW LANE

John Minzel certainly knew how to celebrate his birthday! Mr. Minzel's anniversary was Friday, Nov. 12, and that evening Mrs. Minzel gave a dinner in honor of her husband. Present at the affair were Mr. Minzel's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. August Minzel of Pickrell, his sister, Mrs. Florance Horstman, and Norman Gates.

Saturday evening the Minzels decided to prove how much vitality they have and went a-dancing.

Sunday was a family celebration—21 people worth of family. Present at Sunday supper in honor of Mr. Minzel were his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Allen and family; another son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Radford, and family; and son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Minzel and their family.

COTNER TERRACE

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hoyt have as their houseguest this week their young granddaughter, Miss Penny Lee Copeland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Copeland. Although Penny was a year old on Monday, Nov. 15, her birthday celebration has been postponed a bit because of the arrival of her new sister, Becky Lynn, on Monday, Nov. 15, at Bryan Memorial Hospital. Quite a birthday present Penny received this year!

Mrs. Copeland will be remembered as the former Sharon Hoyt.

Mrs. Roger Weber was hostess at an evening of pinochle at her home Monday night. Mrs. Weber entertained ladies from Cotner Terrace and also South Brook Summitt. Her guests for the evening were Mrs. Kenneth Winkler, Mrs. Leslie Sheffield, Mrs. Edwin Molacek, Mrs. Kenneth Draper, Mrs. Darrell Karr, Mrs. Wayne Hiedbrink, and Mrs. Roger Rhodes. Mrs. Rhodes earned the evening's high score.

There were several other birthday celebrations in suburbia. One anniversary on Nov. 10 belonged to Miss Pamala Becker, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Becker. Pamala was honored at an evening get-together and the guests were her grandmothers, Mrs. Carl Becker and Mrs. Delbert Williams; her uncle, Neal Becker, and her great-grandmother, Mrs. Flora Shields of Smith Center, Kan.

Mrs. Shields, by the way, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Williams, and will be in Lincoln through the Thanksgiving holiday.

The decor was fall-ish, the fare was the traditional turkey and dressing, and so Thanksgiving dinner came a week and a half early for a group of ladies of the Christian Missionary Alliance Church. Sunday afternoon Mrs. Roy Harral was hostess at a pre-Thanksgiving dinner at her home.

Dining at the festive board were Mrs. Gladys Rader, Mrs. Ed Culp, Mrs. Avis Van Edgon, Mrs. Mae Merritt, Mrs. Martha Coates, Mrs. Genniva Christenson, Mrs. Minnie Richardson, Mrs. Iva Tweedy, Mrs. Lucille Stone, Mrs. William Mumma, Mrs. Ella Merrill, Mrs. H. Mittelberg and Mrs. Elmer Murdock.

Saturday evening will mean a bridge get-together for four Cotner Terrace couples. Mr. and Mrs. Walt Bagley, Mr. and Mrs. Don Burzlaff and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mather will be the evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Case.

The Cases also have some other activity planned. With their daughter Sharon, they will go to Webster, Iowa for the Thanksgiving holiday. The Lincoln threesome will be the guests of Mr. Case's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Case, and Mrs. Case's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Graham.

What They're Reading

Theodore Sorensen's highly acclaimed biography of the late president, John F. Kennedy, has gained the honored number one position on the non-fiction, best-seller list this week. The biographical book is entitled, "Kennedy."

Other points of special interest on this week's listings are the three new additions. Billy Graham's book "World Aflame" can be spotted by number 10 under non-fiction, and on the fiction list rating number eight recognition is Robert Ruark's newest book, "Honey Badger," and right below it is "Those Who Love"—a story about the love and trials that President John Adams and his wife, Mary, shared together.

Digressing for just a minute, to mention Helen Hayes autobiography which she entitled, "A Gift of Joy." Her book tells of her life in and out of the theater and it is written with a multiple array of anecdotes and reminiscences. THE TALK around the town

No small-talk dawdling this ayem—We have news of this and that about these and those and we need all of our space.

First we'll begin with news from Syracuse, N.Y., and the arrival on Tuesday, Nov. 16, of Adam Foster Haecker. The young man is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George (Chip) Haecker, Jr., and his mother is the former Judy Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Adams. In addition to his five-year old sister, Audrey, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. George Haecker, the baby has quite a supply of other devoted relatives—such as great-grand parents. On the paternal side are Mr. and Mrs. J. Earle Foster and Mrs. A. L. Haecker. On the maternal side is a great-grandfather, James Kunz of Phoenix, Ariz.

* * *

Then we learned that Mr. and Mrs. Elton Fee left on Monday after a 10-day stay in Lincoln. Mr. and Mrs. Fee, who spent the summer in Washington, D.C., visited Mr. Fee's mother, Mrs. O. J. Fee, and were the house guests of Mrs. George Haecker.

At the moment Mr. and Mrs. Fee are en route to California by way of Arizona where they plan to do some lingering in Phoenix and Tucson — Then to southern California — and northward up the coast.

* * *

We have some guests to mention this morning — Arriving from Oklahoma City a week from today will be Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lilly (Mitzi Moyle) and their four children, Christyn Lynn, Steve, John and Craig. Mr. and Mrs. Lilly and their family will spend the Thanksgiving weekend as the guests of Mr. Lilly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Lilly.

PTA state officers meet

State officers of the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers met in Lincoln, Tuesday, preceding the annual fall meeting of the organization's board of managers, scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday.

NEWS of the suburban areas

MEADOW LANE

John Minzel certainly knew how to celebrate his birthday! Mr. Minzel's anniversary was Friday, Nov. 12, and that evening Mrs. Minzel gave a dinner in honor of her husband. Present at the affair were Mr. Minzel's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. August Minzel of Pickrell, his sister, Mrs. Florance Horstman, and Norman Gates.

Saturday evening ,the Minzels decided to prove how much vitality they have and went a-dancing.

Sunday was a family celebration—21 people worth of family. Present at Sunday supper in honor of Mr. Minzel were his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Allen and family; another son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Radford, and family; and son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Minzel and their family.

COTNER TERRACE

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hoyt have as their houseguest this week their young granddaughter, Miss Penny Lee Copeland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Copeland. Although Penny was a year old on Monday, Nov. 15, her birthday celebration has been postponed a bit because of the arrival of her new sister, Becky Lynn, on Monday, Nov. 15, at Bryan Memorial Hospital. Quite a birthday present Penny received this year!

Mrs. Copeland will be remembered as the former Sharon Hoyt.

Mrs. Roger Weber was hostess at an evening of pinochle at her home Monday night. Mrs. Weber entertained ladies from Cotner Terrace and also South Brook Summitt. Her guests for the evening were Mrs. Kenneth Winkler, Mrs. Leslie Sheffield, Mrs. Edwin Molacek, Mrs. Kenneth Draper, Mrs. Darrell Karr, Mrs. Wayne Hiedbrink, and Mrs. Roger Rhodes. Mrs. Rhodes earned the evening's high score.

There were several other birthday celebrations in suburbia. One anniversary on Nov. 10 belonged to Miss Pamala Becker, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Becker. Pamala was honored at an evening get-together and the guests were her grandmothers, Mrs. Carl Becker and Mrs. Delbert Williams; her uncle, Neal Becker, and her great-grandmother, Mrs. Flora Shields of Smith Center, Kan.

Mrs. Shields, by the way, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Williams, and will be in Lincoln through the Thanksgiving holiday.

The decor was fall-ish, the fare was the traditional turkey and dressing, and so Thanksgiving dinner came a week and a half early for a group of ladies of the Christian Missionary Alliance Church. Sunday afternoon Mrs. Roy Harral was hostess at a pre-Thanksgiving dinner at her home.

Dining at the festive board were Mrs. Gladys Rader, Mrs. Ed Culp, Mrs. Avis Van Edgon, Mrs. Mae Merritt, Mrs. Martha Coates, Mrs. Genniva Christenson, Mrs. Minnie Richardson, Mrs. Iva Tweedy, Mrs. Lucille Stone, Mrs. William Mumma, Mrs. Ella Merrill, Mrs. H. Mittelberg and Mrs. Elmer Murdock.

Saturday evening will mean a bridge get-together for four Cotner Terrace couples. Mr. and Mrs. Walt Bagley, Mr. and Mrs. Don Burzlaff and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mather will be the evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Case.

The Cases also have some other activity planned. With their daughter Sharon, they will go to Webster, Iowa for the Thanksgiving holiday. The Lincoln threesome will be the guests of Mr. Case's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Case, and Mrs. Case's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Graham.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our eldest daughter has just married a rather crude man of whom we are ashamed, but rather than hurt her we've accepted him as gracefully as possible. Our middle daughter, who is away at college, has written to tell us she'd like to bring two of her college chums home for Thanksgiving but if her brother-in-law is going to be there she'll not bring them, as she doesn't want her friends to get a bad impression of her entire family. We've already invited our eldest daughter and her husband for Thanksgiving dinner and hate to revoke the invitation. But isn't it unfair to deprive our middle daughter of having guests because of this awkward situation?

WEST HARTFORD MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell your college daughter that if she wants to bring her friends, to bring them! Her brother-in-law can disgrace only himself, and his crudeness will reflect on the sister who chose him, and no one else. In my opinion, maintaining good family relations with your married daughter makes more sense than locking the skeleton in the closet in order to present a more pleasing family portrait for your younger daughter's chums.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon and I am going into my fourth month, but nobody knows it. I already have my wedding dress, which fit me when I bought it two months ago when I wasn't sure of my condition. If I tell my mother, it will upset all our plans, which I don't want to do. Would it be bad for the baby if I wore a tight corset? Thank you.

SKIP MY NAME

DEAR SKIP: ASK YOUR DOCTOR! But I warn you, it will be like trying to smuggle dawn past a rooster.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: After reading your column about the lady who had so many baking failures and then she found out her one-cup measuring cup was one-fourth of a cup too large, I went and measured the new one-cup I recently bought at my supermarket. And to MY amazement, MINE was also a fourth of a cup off! So I want to say thanks for printing that letter.

MRS. K. S. IN ELKHART

DEAR ABBY: Those measuring cups that are not accurate could be "off" because they were manufactured in Japan or somewhere in the world where OUR standard of measuring is not the same as theirs. In Canada and England, they use the "imperial" gallon, which is not the same as four quarts in the U.S.A. If I am not mistaken, the imperial gallon has five "quarts," but they call them "fifth"; hence, the "fifth" of liquor which looks like our "quart" but isn't.

"A CANADIAN CLUBBER"

DEAR ABBY: Last week I had five beautiful children. Today I have only four who are beautiful, and one who may be beautiful again, but we aren't sure.

My year-old baby put a plugged-in extension cord in her mouth and burned off her upper lip, and half of her lower lip. The doctor says it will take a series of plastic surgery operations to make her look half way normal again. Please, please, tell mothers to keep extension cords where children can't get at them. It's a miracle my baby is alive today. If this letter saves just one baby from being burned as mine was, it will be worth the space in your column. I beg you to print this.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

Opening lead — nine of spades.

In many hands declarer can tell from the bidding the cards each opponent holds in a particular suit. Knowing where these cards are located frequently makes the play of a hand simpler, and seldom does a competent declarer have trouble with such hands.

However, the fact is that quite often in such hands the declarer fails to read the handwriting on the wall, as fashioned by the bidding or play, and he sometimes comes out on the losing end as a result of this.

Here is a case where declarer went wrong. South got to four hearts and West led the nine of spades. Declarer covered with the ten and won the jack with the king.

After drawing trumps, he led the king of diamonds which lost to the ace. West returned a spade and East's A-7 gobbled up the Q-5 to produce three tricks for the defense. East returned a club and South went down one.

Now let's go back to South's first play. Suppose he had played the queen of spades on the nine, instead of playing the ten on it. In that case, if East ducked, South would eventually score both the queen and king, while if East took the ace, he would be unable to return a spade safely because of dummy's ten.

This restriction on East's play would later have proved fatal to the defense. Eventually South would discard a spade on dummy's fourth diamond, regardless of how the defense went, and South would make the contract.

It is not difficult for declarer to figure out how the opponents' cards are divided. He can tell from the word go that East's spade response consists of probably five spades to the A-J and that West's club bid is probably based on the ace of diamonds and a number of clubs headed by the A-Q-J.

Playing the queen of spades at trick one is therefore practically certain to do the job.

WHY Grow Old

the isometric exercises

Josephine Lowman

We know that lack of muscle tone can make us look older in the face and neck, but had you realized that slack muscles are also aging to the figure?

Isometric exercises are great for women because the effort is focused on individual muscles or muscle groups. Therefore, they can be specific in figure molding. Abdominal isometric exercises are slimming to the abdomen and the waist because they take up the slack in the muscles. They are valuable for reconditioning after childbirth. Of course, in this latter instance you must have your doctor's permission.

Isometric exercises are excellent for flabby thighs or arms, for increasing the calves and bust measurement, improving the chinline and facial contour, slimming the waist and flattening the abdomen.

These exercises should not take the place of the isotonic, or active exercises, but they are a wonderful addition and can accomplish a lot with a minimum of time invested. This is a blessing for the busy woman. However, also plan for a brisk two-mile walk or some form of active exercise which zooms the circulation.

Because isometric exercises require no motion you may be fooled by them. They are more strenuous than they appear. Therefore you should check with your doctor just as you always should before beginning any exercise plan. However, many women who cannot take more active exercise are permitted to take these. This is true of many older people.

The following exercise is one for the thighs. Sit on the edge of a chair. Hold onto the chair with your hands. Straighten both legs out in front of you, knees straight and heels on the floor. Cross your ankles, hooking one foot over the other. Keep the feet in this position as you try to pull them apart. Hold tension for six seconds. This is a splendid thigh exercise.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our eldest daughter has just married a rather crude man of whom we are ashamed, but rather than hurt her we've accepted him as gracefully as possible. Our middle daughter, who is away at college, has written to tell us she'd like to bring two of her college chums home for Thanksgiving but if her brother-in-law is going to be there she'll not bring them, as she doesn't want her friends to get a bad impression of her entire family. We've already invited our eldest daughter and her husband for Thanksgiving dinner and hate to revoke the invitation. But isn't it unfair to deprive our middle daughter of having guests because of this awkward situation?

WEST HARTFORD MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell your college daughter that if she wants to bring her friends, to bring them! Her brother-in-law can disgrace only himself, and his crudeness will reflect on the sister who chose him, and no one else. In my opinion, maintaining good family relations with your married daughter makes more sense than locking the skeleton in the closet in order to present a more pleasing family portrait for your younger daughter's chums.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon and I am going into my fourth month, but nobody knows it. I already have my wedding dress, which fit me when I bought it two months ago when I wasn't sure of my condition. If I tell my mother, it will upset all our plans, which I don't want to do. Would it be bad for the baby if I wore a tight corset? Thank you.

SKIP MY NAME

DEAR SKIP: ASK YOUR DOCTOR! But I warn you, it will be like trying to smuggle dawn past a rooster.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: After reading your column about the lady who had so many baking failures and then she found out her one-cup measuring cup was one-fourth of a cup too large, I went and measured the new one-cup I recently bought at my supermarket. And to MY amazement, MINE was also a fourth of a cup off! So I want to say thanks for printing that letter.

MRS. K. S. IN ELKHART

DEAR ABBY: Those measuring cups that are not accurate could be "off" because they were manufactured in Japan or somewhere in the world where OUR standard of measuring is not the same as theirs. In Canada and England, they use the "imperial" gallon, which is not the same as four quarts in the U.S.A. If I am not mistaken, the imperial gallon has five "quarts," but they call them "fifth"; hence, the "fifth" of liquor which looks like our "quart" but isn't.

"A CANADIAN CLUBBER"

DEAR ABBY: Last week I had five beautiful children. Today I have only four who are beautiful, and one who may be beautiful again, but we aren't sure.

My year-old baby put a plugged-in extension cord in her mouth and burned off her upper lip, and half of her lower lip. The doctor says it will take a series of plastic surgery operations to make her look half way normal again. Please, please, tell mothers to keep extension cords where children can't get at them. It's a miracle my baby is alive today. If this letter saves just one baby from being burned as mine was, it will be worth the space in your column. I beg you to print this.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

Opening lead — nine of spades.

In many hands declarer can tell from the bidding the cards each opponent holds in a particular suit. Knowing where these cards are located frequently makes the play of a hand simpler, and seldom does a competent declarer have trouble with such hands.

However, the fact is that quite often in such hands the declarer fails to read the handwriting on the wall, as fashioned by the bidding or play, and he sometimes comes out on the losing end as a result of this.

Here is a case where declarer went wrong. South got to four hearts and West led the nine of spades. Declarer covered with the ten and won the jack with the king.

After drawing trumps, he led the king of diamonds which lost to the ace. West returned a spade and East's A-7 gobbled up the Q-5 to produce three tricks for the defense. East returned a club and South went down one.

Now let's go back to South's first play. Suppose he had played the queen of spades on the nine, instead of playing the ten on it. In that case, if East ducked, South would eventually score both the queen and king, while if East took the ace, he would be unable to return a spade safely because of dummy's ten.

This restriction on East's play would later have proved fatal to the defense. Eventually South would discard a spade on dummy's fourth diamond, regardless of how the defense went, and South would make the contract.

It is not difficult for declarer to figure out how the opponents' cards are divided. He can tell from the word go that East's spade response consists of probably five spades to the A-J and that West's club bid is probably based on the ace of diamonds and a number of clubs headed by the A-Q-J.

Playing the queen of spades at trick one is therefore practically certain to do the job.

WHY Grow Old

the isometric exercises

Josephine Lowman

We know that lack of muscle tone can make us look older in the face and neck, but had you realized that slack muscles are also aging to the figure?

Isometric exercises are great for women because the effort is focused on individual muscles or muscle groups. Therefore, they can be specific in figure molding. Abdominal isometric exercises are slimming to the abdomen and the waist because they take up the slack in the muscles. They are valuable for reconditioning after childbirth. Of course, in this latter instance you must have your doctor's permission.

Isometric exercises are excellent for flabby thighs or arms, for increasing the calves and bust measurement, improving the chinline and facial contour, slimming the waist and flattening the abdomen.

These exercises should not take the place of the isotonic, or active exercises, but they are a wonderful addition and can accomplish a lot with a minimum of time invested. This is a blessing for the busy woman. However, also plan for a brisk two-mile walk or some form of active exercise which zooms the circulation.

Because isometric exercises require no motion you may be fooled by them. They are more strenuous than they appear. Therefore you should check with your doctor just as you always should before beginning any exercise plan. However, many women who cannot take more active exercise are permitted to take these. This is true of many older people.

The following exercise is one for the thighs. Sit on the edge of a chair. Hold onto the chair with your hands. Straighten both legs out in front of you, knees straight and heels on the floor. Cross your ankles, hooking one foot over the other. Keep the feet in this position as you try to pull them apart. Hold tension for six seconds. This is a splendid thigh exercise.

Complexion Beautifier
The complexion takes on new beauty through the use of a tropical moist oil that checks dryness of the skin's surface cells. Being isotonic in action, it revitalizes the plasma colloids (the skin's water carriers) and the complexion takes on a glorious, youthful bloom. Smoothed over the face and neck before make-up is applied this moist oil of Olay makes the complexion youthfully clear, and lovely.

Despite Steel Drop, U.S. Production Rose In October

Washington (AP)—The nation's industrial production increased slightly in October despite a sharp decline in the steel industry, the Federal Reserve Board reported Tuesday.

The Federal Reserve index was 143.6 in October compared to 143 in September. This means that production was 43% above the 1957-59 average. A year ago the index stood at 121.6%.

Production of iron and steel dropped eight per cent in October as steel consumers continued to use inventories they accumulated in anticipation of a strike.

This production decline, however, was more than offset by higher production of automobiles, industrial and commercial machinery, aircraft and home goods.

Coal production recovered after strikes in September and oil production rose following interruptions caused by Hurricane Betsy.

The index for automotive products was 168 in October compared to 166.2 in September.

The production index has risen steadily this year but it dropped in September from 144.4 to 143 as steel output fell.

In the first 10 months of the year the production index has averaged eight per cent above the comparable 1964 period.

Aircraft production recovered after a work stoppage in early October.

NU African Students Hit Smith Rule

By GARY GRAUL
Star Staff Writer

African students at the University of Nebraska are reacting violently to Prime Minister Ian Smith's seizure of the Rhodesian government.

"Members of the African Student Association of Nebraska (ASAN) volunteered a pledge to return home on demand — to fight if need be," according to Obasi Onuoha of Nigeria, secretary of ASAN.

President Sylvester Amanquah said that ASAN has sent cablegrams to the secretary-general of the Organization of African Unity (OAU) in Addisababa, Ethiopia, and to the New York headquarters of the Pan African Students of America.

Arms May Be Solution

The cablegrams and letters sent to African governments advised that "since negotiations have failed, armed intervention may be the only solution to the Rhodesian crisis."

Amanquah expressed hope that the African nations would form a combined military force under the OAU to take action. For the present they should provide "money, food and medicine for the African Rhodesians."

Onuoha added, "We requested the African governments to encourage the African Rhodesians to form a government in exile to seek support within and without Africa."

The students express no faith in the efficacy of economic sanctions. The sanctions, according to E. M. Maryogo of Tanzania, former ASAN president, "would punish only the Africans, because what is left available would go to the small group in power."

Amanquah noted that the regime could still trade with the Union of South Africa and Spanish and Portuguese colonies for what they need.

Question

"Rhodesia has brought a question to the minds of young Africans," Maryogo stated. "The Congo was a public humiliation for all Africa; Rhodesia has gone even farther."

He said these actions have alienated Africa's younger generation from the West, particularly "its senior citizen, the United States . . . We must make a complete break with the West so we can have a clean sheet to start our Africa."

"There hasn't been any public incident with the USSR and China," he continued. "The break with the Western nations will not be to our liking. We are being forced into it."

Symposium

ASAN will sponsor a symposium on Rhodesia to be held at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Wesley Foundation Center, 640 No. 16th. The publsc is invited.

The panel will have a neutral moderator and include students from Africa, Latin America, China and Europe. ASAN hopes to include an English and a Rhodesian student.

Dump Problem Threat To Area Neighborliness

. . . Fremont-Arlington Dispute

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Arlington — Fremont wants to move its city dump, but it's finding, as City Administrator Vernon Dunn puts it, that "a dump is unpopular."

It's certainly proved so in the open dispute between Fremont and neighbor Arlington seven miles down U.S. 30.

The present dump, explained Dunn, "is running out of room, and we have to go somewhere." That location is south of town near the Platte River.

On the basis to bids submitted by individuals to locate and run a land-fill dump for the use of the city as a private business, the Fremont City Council has tentatively contracted with John Benes.

Benes proposes to use land he owns adjacent to the Elkhorn River and U.S. 30 five miles east of Fremont. Dunn said refuse would be about a quarter mile back from the roadway, separated from it by a row of trees that would be planted, and a quarter to half mile from the Elkhorn channel.

But that still puts it within two miles of Arlington.

Fear 'Unsightly Mess'

This community is afraid it would be "an unsightly mess" from the transcontinental highway. And "in the winter when we have a northwest wind and they can't fill it up, paper will blow across and make a mess all over the highway," said Fred Klug, Arlington Town Board member.

It's also in the area where floods have washed through the last two springs, and that "would bring debris right on across the land," contended Klug.

However, the Fremont administrator counters, "It would not be an eyesore if it were run properly — and we propose that it shall be run properly."

It would be hidden, he said, so drivers would "have to look pretty sharp to see anything but a pile of dirt and a tractor," and the city would require such things as converting the refuse daily when possible and restricting burning to brush.

Seepage Possibility

The land fill procedure, which involves digging trenches for the refuse and bulldozing dirt in to cover it, might not work, as Arlington officials have contended, since the water level may be too high to permit trenches deep enough and there is the possibility of seepage into the river.

Dunn said the State Board of Health has been called in to investigate this possibility.

Arlington, after sending letters of protest to Fremont officials and appearing before the Dodge County Board of Supervisors, which subsequently recommended against the site, is hoping that the state board's findings will necessitate finding another location.

But Klug admits that there would be bad feeling if the present plans go through.

"We'll try to settle it peacefully," he said. "We want to be good neighbors as we have been in the past."

An economic boycott "could be" in the offing, although Arlington would hate to have it come to that. "We do business over there, and a lot of people work over there," said Klug. "We've got to be neighbors, and we want to be friendly neighbors."

Fauquet Quits State Central Demo Position

Kearney (AP)—Nebraska Democratic Chairman John C. Mitchell said Tuesday he had received a letter from Paul Fauquet of Plattsmouth resigning from the State Central Committee because of the press of personal affairs and indicating he is "not completely happy with the titular head of the party."

"I appreciate his frankness," Mitchell said.

Fauquet's letter said the increasing volume of his law business left him with insufficient time to devote to the job of being a state committeeman. He added that there is "the further reason" that he finds himself "at odds with the titular head of the state Democratic party, being unable to longer actively support that leadership and having to apologize to my friends and associates for my connection."

He said he had decided "the only proper thing to do" was for him to "move over and let some one else take over this job who can be in sympathy."

Fauquet also withdrew his membership on the Second Congressional District committee sponsoring the "Salute to LBJ" $25 a plate fund raising dinner in Omaha Friday night, which he said would become "a sounding board for the titular head of the Nebraska Democrtic party."

He did not mention Gov. Frank Morrison by name.

Circulation Of Petition Favored

Scottsbluff (AP)—The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation convention approved Tuesday circulation of an initiative petition designed to give the people "a more complete and true choice on taxation." The resolution did not say just what the petition would propose.

The last Legislature passed an income tax bill and opponents used the initiative petition process to place the question on the 1966 general election ballot. In his address to the convention, federation president Charles Marshall had said his group would support "everyone" favoring retention of the income tax.

In other actions, the convention:

Tabled a motion advocating printing in local newspapers of assessed personal property values of taxpayers.

Favored a uniform speed limit for all motor vehicles.

Favored stiffer penalties for littering highways.

Gave approval to LB332, the new noxious weed law.

Iowa Says Nebraska Broke Pact

San Francisco (AP)—Iowa accused Nebraska Tuesday of violating the interstate boundary compact between the two states by giving Nebraskans title to land owned by the State of Iowa.

The charge was made in a counterclaim filed with Judge Walter L. Pope of the U.S. Court of Appeals who is sitting as a special master for the United States Supreme Court in the boundary fight.

The brief cited only one example. It referred to an island claimed to have been built up on the Iowa side of the river prior to the 1943 compact. Nebraska courts granted title to Richard E. Krimlofski of Nebraska in two separate cases.

Retained Title

Iowa asked the court to rule that Nebraska consented in the compact to ownership by the State of Iowa of land inside Nebraska. The brief said Iowa ceded jurisdiction and sovereignty to Nebraska but retained title.

The document implied there were other similar cases.

It was submitted during a two-day hearing to resolve such preliminary issues as permissible questions each state may ask of witnesses.

Robert Moldenhauer of Omaha, special assistant attorney general for Nebraska, told the court that "we think the compact may have changed each state's law regarding ownership of stream beds."

Difference

Under Iowa law the state owns the river bottom to the center of the channel which the 1943 compact set as the state boundary. Nebraska gives ownership of the river bottom to owners of riparian rights.

"If the compact said" existing rights were to be recognized, Moldenhauer told the court, "then no longer would Iowa law prevail to the center of the stream. Iowa must recognize the deeds granted riparian owners by Nebraska."

The dispute between the states was precipitated by the changing Missouri River. Willis Brown, Nebraska state engineer, testified it may take 10 years to find again the boundaries set in 1943.

To Continue

The San Francisco hearing will continue Wednesday as a prelude to a pre-trial session on the case which is before the United States Supreme Court.

Brown said the Nebraska surveyor's office has spent 30,000 man hours on the problem.

The West Coast meeting between the two Midwest states was supposed to have started Monday, but Judge Pope was sitting in another court case.

Robert Scism, assistant attorney general for Iowa, asked Brown if much of the 30,000 hours spent on his special survey was not along Nebraska's border with Missouri.

"We don't have any areas there in litigation except those being financed by private parties," Brown replied. "Those surveys are not being paid from our funds."

Iowa Says Nebraska Broke Pact

San Francisco (AP)—Iowa accused Nebraska Tuesday of violating the interstate boundary compact between the two states by giving Nebraskans title to land owned by the State of Iowa.

The charge was made in a counterclaim filed with Judge Walter L. Pope of the U.S. Court of Appeals who is sitting as a special master for the United States Supreme Court in the boundary fight.

The brief cited only one example. It referred to an island claimed to have been built up on the Iowa side of the river prior to the 1943 compact. Nebraska courts granted title to Richard E. Krimlofski of Nebraska in two separate cases.

Retained Title

Iowa asked the court to rule that Nebraska consented in the compact to ownership by the State of Iowa of land inside Nebraska. The brief said Iowa ceded jurisdiction and sovereignty to Nebraska but retained title.

The document implied there were other similar cases.

It was submitted during a two-day hearing to resolve such preliminary issues as permissible questions each state may ask of witnesses.

Robert Moldenhauer of Omaha, special assistant attorney general for Nebraska, told the court that "we think the compact may have changed each state's law regarding ownership of stream beds."

Difference

Under Iowa law the state owns the river bottom to the center of the channel which the 1943 compact set as the state boundary. Nebraska gives ownership of the river bottom to owners of riparian rights.

"If the compact said" existing rights were to be recognized, Moldenhauer told the court, "then no longer would Iowa law prevail to the center of the stream. Iowa must recognize the deeds granted riparian owners by Nebraska."

The dispute between the states was precipitated by the changing Missouri River. Willis Brown, Nebraska state engineer, testified it may take 10 years to find again the boundaries set in 1943.

To Continue

The San Francisco hearing will continue Wednesday as a prelude to a pre-trial session on the case which is before the United States Supreme Court.

Brown said the Nebraska surveyor's office has spent 30,000 man hours on the problem.

The West Coast meeting between the two Midwest states was supposed to have started Monday, but Judge Pope was sitting in another court case.

Robert Scism, assistant attorney general for Iowa, asked Brown if much of the 30,000 hours spent on his special survey was not along Nebraska's border with Missouri.

"We don't have any areas there in litigation except those being financed by private parties," Brown replied. "Those surveys are not being paid from our funds."

Meetings Held Here By Legion

Leaders of the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary from 12 states are holding conferences in Lincoln this week to explore and plan activities in the Girls State, veterans rehabilitation and child welfare fields.

The annual Midwestern Rehabilitation Conference will begin Wednesday with emphasis on "The Veteran-Our Responsibility."

American Legion Vice Commander William E. Galbraith of Beemer will address the banquet Wednesday night.

"Action — Hallmark of Successful Citizens" will be the theme of the annual Midwestern Area Child Welfare Conference which will begin Thursday.

Where the Action Is

Judge Seward L. Hart of the Douglas County Juvenile Court will give the keynote address, "The Community — Where the Action Is."

National Legion Auxiliary President Mrs. Walter H. Glynn of Des Moines, Iowa, will speak at the Friday night child welfare banquet.

"Our concern is not for the present so much as it is for tomorrow — that tomorrow there will be a United States which is a responsible democracy that respects the rights of the individual," said Mrs. Glenn Hultquist of Winfield, Iowa, national Girls State chairman, at the annual Girl State area conference Tuesday.

17,000 Trained

Mrs. Hultquist pointed out that during 1965, 17,000 girls received citizenship training under the Girls' State program and that more than 300,000 have received the training since the program began nationally.

Nancy Hardin, Lincoln Southeast High School student and Girls State representative, spoke at the afternoon session on "This Was My Week."

UP Told To See Citizens About Road

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday advised the Union Pacific Railroad to contact property owners regarding a proposal to vacate a road south of Princeton and replace a bridge with a culvert.

M. J. Anderson, representing the railroad, said the present timber bridge would be up for replacement next year and the railroad would like to improve the crossing and at the same time not expend in excess of $60,000 for a steel bridge if use of the road doesn't warrant keeping it open.

In other business, the board set Dec. 7 for public hearing on the application for transfer of an amusement license for a go-cart track from 14th and Cornhusker to 27th and Superior.

Bill McClellan, operator of the track now at 14th and Cornhusker, appeared in behalf of the application.

U.N. Boosts Exchange

United Nations (AP) — The General Assembly's 117-nation social committee unanimously approved an international program of town-twinning by which paired localities in different countries join in cultural exchanges and mutual aid. It specified that the economic and social council and the secretary-general should encourage the program.

Meetings Held Here By Legion

Leaders of the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary from 12 states are holding conferences in Lincoln this week to explore and plan activities in the Girls State, veterans rehabilitation and child welfare fields.

The annual Midwestern Rehabilitation Conference will begin Wednesday with emphasis on "The Veteran-Our Responsibility."

American Legion Vice Commander William E. Galbraith of Beemer will address the banquet Wednesday night.

"Action — Hallmark of Successful Citizens" will be the theme of the annual Midwestern Area Child Welfare Conference which will begin Thursday.

Where the Action Is

Judge Seward L. Hart of the Douglas County Juvenile Court will give the keynote address, "The Community — Where the Action Is."

National Legion Auxiliary President Mrs. Walter H. Glynn of Des Moines, Iowa, will speak at the Friday night child welfare banquet.

"Our concern is not for the present so much as it is for tomorrow — that tomorrow there will be a United States which is a responsible democracy that respects the rights of the individual," said Mrs. Glenn Hultquist of Winfield, Iowa, national Girls State chairman, at the annual Girl State area conference Tuesday.

17,000 Trained

Mrs. Hultquist pointed out that during 1965, 17,000 girls received citizenship training under the Girls' State program and that more than 300,000 have received the training since the program began nationally.

Nancy Hardin, Lincoln Southeast High School student and Girls State representative, spoke at the afternoon session on "This Was My Week."

UP Told To See Citizens About Road

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday advised the Union Pacific Railroad to contact property owners regarding a proposal to vacate a road south of Princeton and replace a bridge with a culvert.

M. J. Anderson, representing the railroad, said the present timber bridge would be up for replacement next year and the railroad would like to improve the crossing and at the same time not expend in excess of $60,000 for a steel bridge if use of the road doesn't warrant keeping it open.

In other business, the board set Dec. 7 for public hearing on the application for transfer of an amusement license for a go-cart track from 14th and Cornhusker to 27th and Superior.

Bill McClellan, operator of the track now at 14th and Cornhusker, appeared in behalf of the application.

U.N. Boosts Exchange

United Nations (AP) — The General Assembly's 117-nation social committee unanimously approved an international program of town-twinning by which paired localities in different countries join in cultural exchanges and mutual aid. It specified that the economic and social council and the secretary-general should encourage the program.

Lively weather and lively times in the free world of free enterprise.

The big aluminum companies announced they are raising the rice of raw aluminum a half cent a pound—certainly doesn't sound like much.

Apparently it is a whole lot though. The papers are full of statements. And the TV screen is full of angry gents crying for justice and understanding.

"If any industry has a right to raise prices, it is ours," said an aluminum president. "Why we only make five percent on borrowed money!"

☆ ☆ ☆

I wish I could borrow money and make five per cent on it. But in the wheeling world of finance, I gather this is considered mighty poor pickings.

Aluminum, it seems, is not just pots and pans and foil to wrap hamburgers for the barbecue.

When aluminum goes up, all kinds of things cost more—which is "free enterprise" or "inflationary" according to whether you are president of an aluminum company or President of the United States.

All of this coming from a half cent a pound. Which is really peanuts. If it were applied to peanuts, that is.

☆ ☆ ☆

On to better news. A 13-year-old boy named Richard has a Kennedy half dollar. Collectors offered him $10,000 for it!

It seems the half is dated 1961. Whereas the coins weren't minted until 1964. Collectors are mad about such mistakes.

☆ ☆ ☆

What is more interesting is how young Richard got the half dollar.

He said: "One day I saw my mother spill some change on the dining room table. I looked through it and saw the Kennedy with the '61 date."

Well, Richard had been reading coin catalogues, improving his mind. He knew there was no Kennedy coin until 1964.

"I casually walked in my room and got five dimes from the bank," said Richard—the reporters hanging on every word.

"I came out in the kitchen and very casually in my most normal voice, I said: 'Hey, Mom, how about trading me this half dollar for five dimes?"

"I waited for her answer," said Richard, "and when she said, 'yes,' I quietly laid the dimes down in exchange for the half."

Thus, when lesser boys might have betrayed excitement or anxiety, young Richard kept his head and euchered his mama out of ten grand.

☆ ☆ ☆

All of my half dollars are correctly dated. And I have no aluminum stocks, more's the pity.

The half buck I put into a new pot will buy me only a half dollar's worth of something to boil water in. Plus a half cent per pound. A half cent isn't going to make that much difference.

It may get the aluminum people off the hook for that five per cent return on borrowed money. (I think the aluminum man implied that he borrowed from the bank at six per cent. That sounds like my kind of finance and I surely sympathize.)

☆ ☆ ☆

The President of the U.S. thinks the price raise is inflationary—a very bad word. Whereas, the aluminum people think it's free enterprise—which is almost holy.

The President may unload some of our stockpiled aluminum yours and mine. A kind of price war.

Thus the aluminum man gets on the TV and cries for justice. He's got problems.

"You might ignore a man's voice—but you don't ignore a woman's," one said.

The original dimensions of the Washington Monument were changed as a result of research by George Marsh, a United States minister to Italy. A true obelisk, he reported, would have a height about 10 times its base width, hence the monument's final proportions, 555 feet 5⅛ inches high to a base 55 feet 1½ inches square.

Americans eat seaweed unknowingly. Manufacturers include it in such products as bread, cheese, ice cream, jellies, salad dressings and breakfast food.

Huskers Finally Arrive

A sure sign that Nebraska football has arrived in a big way on the national scene is that people other than Nebraskans are starting to choose up sides.

As any politician can tell you being ignored is the surest sign that you aren't very successful. The Huskers certainly aren't being ignored these days.

Don Owens, a former St. Louis Cardinal tackle who now works as a college scout for the Cards, somehow sneaked into a Big Eight stadium (you know, the pros are personna non grata in the Big Eight) and got a look at the Huskers.

"This is the biggest, deepest and best college football team I've ever seen," Owens told St. Louis Globe-Democrat sports editor Bob Burnes in discussing the Huskers. "They're starting a new National League team in Atlanta next fall and if they could move the whole Nebraska team down there, they'd be off to a fast start."

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell and Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton are on Owens' side in the how good is Nebraska controversy. "They're the best team ever in the Big Eight," says Mitchell.

"I thought Oklahoma hit harder than Missouri," Stapleton begins in comparing football teams. "But they can't compare with Nebraska. Nebraska has to be the greatest team in the nation."

Bill Orwig, former Nebraksa athletic director and now in the same capacity at Indiana, also joins the "Hail Nebraska" group indirectly.

"Give Johnny Pont (Indiana football coach) two more years and we should be ready for the Big 10 — and even for Nebraska," Orwig says.

But there is a dissenter in the group, Oklahoma coach Gomer Jones who has yet to play the Huskers. "Jack Mitchell says they are the best," Jones told the Kansas City Byline Club this week. "And they do have a great team. But I'd sure like to have Oklahoma's 1956 team — or the 1949 team."

The Huskers get the chance to change Gomer's mind when they go before the national television cameras Thanksgiving Day.

Paunchy And Puffy-Eyed

Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney's physical characteristics take a beating every time a national magazine decides to do a story on him.

Time Magazine is the latest with a story this week on the Cornhuskers in which they refer to Devaney as a "paunchy, puffy-eyed Irishman."

Nebraskans, however, will argue that they have the best paunchy, puffy-eyed, dandruff-plagued, pearl-tie tack wearing coach in the country.

Afraid Of Arkansas?

Rick Richardson of Fairbury takes exception to the Nebaska choice of the Orange Bowl over the Cotton Bowl and asks for support on his contention.

"I sincerely hope that you're on my side when I say Nebraska should go to the Cotton Bowl," Richardson writes.

"I don't know what their reasons are for going to the Orange Bowl, but I'm beginning to wonder. Nebraska will probably face Alabama in the Orange Bowl. I don't think Alabama is as tough as the Hogs, and maybe that's the reason for wanting to go to Miami. Personally, I think the Tide is over-rated as they were last year.

"The Southwest Conference is one of the roughest in the nation, if not the best. Texas was No. 1 and they got beat by Arkansas, then were thumped by Rice and SMU. Texas beat Texas Tech, which could beat any Big Eight team except maybe Nebraska.

"I believe that NU is afraid they will ruin their unblemished record. The Hogs aren't afraid of us, but we're reluctant to play them or even come close to Arkansas territory. We should play the Hogs just to show people we have one team in the Big Eight left."

COMMENT—To prove that they aren't reluctant to come close to Arkansas teritory, the players could have the pilot flying them to Miami divert a few miles and fly over Hog country.

Solich Watches Practice

Nebraska's leading rusher, Frank Solich watched from the sidelines Tuesday as the Huskers moved through drills for their final season game Thanksgiving Day against Oklahoma.

After taking whirlpool treatment for his bruised knee, Solich watched in street clothes as his teammates worked out.

Coach Bob Devaney plans workouts through Friday of this week and Monday, Tuesday and Wednseday of next week with the game slated for Thursday.

"We may work out Saturday morning," Devaney said. "But we haven't decided on that yet. We may decide to give them Saturday and Sunday off."

Saturday is the first open date a Nebraska football team has had since Devaney took over.

The Husker coach also revealed Tuesday that Arizona has been chosen as the training site for pre-Orange Bowl preparations.

He declined to name the exact city because he was still waiting for official confirmation from school authorities in that city.

Devaney plans two-a-day drills at the Arizona site starting either Dec. 14 or 15 and continuing through Dec. 21 or 22. The team will leave Lincoln for Miami Dec. 26.

Michigan State To Battle Winner

Chicago (AP) — The unbeaten No. 1 ranked Michigan State Spartans, winners of their first undisputed Big Ten football title, formally received Tuesday a unanimous vote of conference athletic directors for their third Rose Bowl trip.

The Spartans seek their 10th straight victory in closing out their regular schedule against No. 4 Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend, Ind. Their Rose Bowl opponent Jan. 1 will be either Southern California or UCLA. That decision will be reached Saturday when the two Coast team have a showdown.

Michigan State's Rose Bowl choice marked the first time in the history of the Big Ten contract for the game that the conference made an official selection before the end of the regular season.

The Spartans defeated UCLA 28-20 in the 1954 Rose Bowl and returned in 1956 to down UCLA 17-14. In each case MSU was runner-up in the Big Ten.

AP BACK OF WEEK

Michigan State quarterback Steve Juday, right, was surprised and happy Tuesday as he learned that he had been named the AP Back of the Week. Defensive safety man Jimmy Summers helps Juday adjust his shoulder pads before heading to the practice field to prepare for Saturday's game against Notre Dame.

Huskers Near NCAA Leaders

. . . LEAD RUSHING OFFENSE

New York (AP)—The closest scoring race since official college football statistics have been kept approaches a climax Saturday with Notre Dame and Princeton tied at 33.4 points a game and Nebraska, Tulsa, Arkansas and Dartmouth within three points of the leaders.

Tulsa, last year's scoring winner, may do it again as it seeks to clinch the Missouri Valley Conference championship by taking on Wichita State Saturday while the other contenders face sterner foes.

Only Army in 1944 and 1945 and Oklahoma in 1955 and 1956 have won the collegiate scoring crown two years in a row.

This is the first time in National Collegiate Athletics Bureau records that two teams have been tied for the lead, and the top six so closely bunched.

While Tulsa engages Wichita State, Notre Dame takes on top ranked Michigan State, Princeton meets Dartmouth for the Ivy League championship, Nebraska is idle, and Arkansas faces Texas Tech.

In the big battle at South Bend, Ind., Michigan State goes in with an average total offense a game of 363.9 yards, fourth in the nation, as against Notre Dame's 351.0, in 11th place Tulsa leads in this category with 425.0 a game, followed by Nebraska 403.2, and Princeton 366.9.

In rushing offense Nebraska is in front with 285.1, with Notre Dame second at 255.3, and Michigan State sixth at 240.0.

Tulsa is the leader in passing with 344.8 yards a game and 25 touchdowns, well ahead of Texas Western with 322.9 and 17 touchdowns.

In scoring, Notre Dame in eight games has 267 points for a 33.4 average, the same as Princeton, followed by Nebraska with 300 in nine games and 33.3; Tulsa 254 in 8, 31.8 Arkansas 282 in 9, 31.3; Dartmouth 243 in 8, 30.4; Utah State, 257 in 9, 28.6; Colorado State University, 244 in 9, 27.1; West Virginia, 242 in 9, 26.9; and in tenth place Michigan State 239 in 9, 26.6.

8-Man All-State Power Packed

. . . BACKFIELD COMBINED FOR 542 POINTS IN SEASON

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

The 1965 all-state eight-man team boasts a backfield combination with a potent scoring wallop and a powerful line.

Sutherland's Ken Beatty, Alvo-Eagle's Gary Johnson and Axtell's Dave Larson, the all-state backfield, combined for a total of 542 points during the season.

Setting the pace in the backfield voting was Beatty, who won the Class D 100 and 220 titles as a junior. The Sutherland sizzler averaged 11.6 yards per carry en route to a 196-point season and was an exceptional defensive player.

Johnson, who has size, speed and power, averaged just over 10 yards a carry and tallied 171 points. He kept the defenses honest with his throwing, passing often enough to account for 302 yards and three touchdowns.

Larson, a scatback who set the offensive pace in the free-wheeling Fort Kearney Conference, had the biggest scoring night of the season when he tallied 57 points in a 67-45 win over Sumner. The 155-pound senior averaged just under 200 yards a game in rushing offense.

Hub of the all-state front wall is Cedar Bluffs senior Mike Kaczmarski, who edged Doniphan's Cliff Underwood in a tight race for the center spot.

Kaczmarski, a 6-2, 205-pound veteran, helped establish a powerful running attack with his offensive blocking and spearheaded a tough defensive line that helped Cedar Bluffs roll to a perfect 10-0 season.

At the guard spots are Barlett's Al Childers, the only junior on the squad, and Overton's Bob Larson.

Childers, 5-10 and 185 pounds, relished the heavy going and his solid line play boosted Bartlett to an unbeaten campaign.

Larson played the same role for unbeaten Overton. He handled center linebacker chores for the Eagles and among his accomplishments were a pair of blocked punts which were turned into touchdowns.

Western's Dennis Bartels and Dawson-Verdon's Bob Gergen are a powerful pair of ends.

Bartels, 6-2 and 205 pounds, excelled in all phases of end play. Perhaps his strongest suit was blocking, which helped the Indians develop a strong attack. He was a strong defender and a highly capable pass receiver.

Gergen, 6-2 and 195 pounds, has similar capabilities, also drawing high praise for his blocking. He had 12 touchdown receptions and was a tough defender. He added to the Dawson-Verdon punch with exceptional kickoff and punting work.

AFL CHANGES DRAFT DATE

New York (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss moved back the American Football League's draft Tuesday from Nov. 20 to Nov. 27.

The AFL had been bitterly criticized by college authorities for deciding earlier to hold its annual draft one week before the college football season virtually ended while the rival National Football League agreed to run its draft on Nov. 27.

The move came shortly after the Atlanta Journal and Dallas Times-Herald said they had been informed that the AFL had held a preliminary draft of six rounds on Nov. 2 or Nov. 9. This was promptly denied by AFL officials.

The AFL in New York announced that Foss, in Kansas City, had talked on the telephone with James Corbett, who was in Baton Rouge, La., and had been assured by the college official that the National Collegiate Athletic Commission would condemn any flagrant cases of "baby sitting" that would deprive college draftees of their bargaining rights.

—LANE, GARRISON MENTIONED—

ISU's Van Galder, Big 8 Back Of Week

Iowa State quarterback Tim Van Galder, with 344 yards total offense against Kansas State, was voted Big Eight back of the week by a slim margin over Gary Lane, Missouri quarterback, and Walt Garrison, Oklahoma State fullback.

The performances by Lane and Garrison were among the best in their careers and good enough to win back of the week honors almost any other Saturday this fall.

But Van Galder's 344 was second best in Big Eight history behind the 359 by Tony Scardino of Missouri against Oklahoma in 1951. His 293 passing was third best in league history behind Scardino and the 311 by Paul Christman of Missouri against K-State in 1938.

Lane had 155 total offense on 27 plays against Oklahoma and moved within 12 yards of 3,000 in career total offense, a mark reached by only seven players in league history. He scored three touchdowns and passed for the fourth.

Garrison slashed the Nebraska defense 121 yards in 19 carries, including an 18-yarder to the Husker 5-yard line on the final play.

"Garrison is the best fullback I've ever seen in the Big Eight," said Bob Devaney, Nebraska coach.

Other back candidates included Harry Wilson of Nebraska with 95 yards rushing and two big plays, one a third-down pass reception, in the winning drive.

—LINCOLN TRACK PROSPERS—

Sharp Declines In Nebraska Racing Figures Cause Study

Sharp declines in both daily average attendance and daily average pari-mutuel handle in the state in 1965 are causing operators of the seven Thoroughbred horse racing tracks in Nebraska to take a long, hard look at many probelms.

Six of the state's seven tracks were down in daily average attendance and five of the seven were down in daily average mutuel handle. Only a complete rejuvenation of Thoroughbred racing at the Nebraska State Fair Grounds in Lincoln provided a bright spot.

The Thoroughbred Racing Associations of Nebraska is holding its annual meeting in Lincoln.

Each track's officials will meet with the Nebraska State Racing Commission Wednesday to be assigned its dates for 1966.

TRAN officials expressed concern over the continued increase in state tax on the pari-mutuel handle which was increased 33% from 3% to 4% on all money wagered.

"This increase in the state tax has to be one of our main problems and has been a main factor in the decline this year," Warren Albert of Columbus, president of the TRAN, declared.

The state had 162 days of Thoroughbred racing in 1965 compared to 149 in 1964. This brought about an increase in total attendance from 913,385 to 945,103. But the average attendance was down 4.83%. The total pari-mutuel handle was also up with $49,026,061 in 1965, compared to $47,585,946 in 1964. But again the daily average was down by 5.24%.

Lincoln, which was buoyed by new dates following the Omaha meeting, a completely refurbished plant and outstanding horses, due in part to flooding in Colorado, had its greatest meeting in history. The Fairgrounds handle was up 7.49% and the attendance was up 11.80%.

Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha was down in attendance for the first time in 15 years but managed a slight 1.90% increase in handle, sparked by the installation of big screen television, a first in Thoroughbred racing in the United States.

Other than Lincoln's gains in attendance and handle and Omaha's small increase in handle, the rest of the story was a gloomy one.

In addition to the increased pari-mutuel tax, the tracks fought the weather, highway detours, changes in the schedule and possibly a saturation point of racing dates for the state.

Average pari-mutuel handle was off in alarming fashion. At Grand Island's Fonner Park it was down 12.00%, at Columbus 1.90%, at Madison 33.68%, at Mitchell 17.16% and at Atokad in South Sioux City 10.15%.

Average attendance was down 4.13% at Grand Island, 0.45% at Omaha, 0.69% at Columbus, 32.26% at Madison, 10.28% at Mitchell, and 9.29% at South Sioux City.

The State Racing Commission in 1965 awarded 5 additional days to South Sioux City, 4 additional days to Columbus, 3 additional days to Lincoln, and 1 additional day to Grand Island.

"It is extremely interesting to note," Mr. Albert said, "that the last four meetings in the state were all down in both average attendance and average handle. Horse racing, as conducted in Nebraska on a non-profit basis, is a wonderful thing for the state and the state itself receives nearly $2 million for the general fund.

"But a limit can be reached, especially in view of the rather limited population of Nebraska. The racing industry in Nebraska is faced with tremendously increased competition from other states to obtain horses. Everything must be done to see that the future of horse racing in Nebraska is not jeopardized."

The tracks are faced not only with the pari-mutuel tax. They also pay a state admission tax, a state licensing fee and fees are paid by all individuals racing in Nebraska.

Tulsa, last year's scoring winner, may do it again as it seeks to clinch the Missouri Valley Conference championship by taking on Wichita State Saturday while the other contenders face sterner foes.

Only Army in 1944 and 1945 and Oklahoma in 1955 and 1956 have won the collegiate scoring crown two years in a row.

This is the first time in National Collegiate Athletics Bureau records that two teams have been tied for the lead, and the top six so closely bunched.

While Tulsa engages Wichita State, Notre Dame takes on top ranked Michigan State, Princeton meets Dartmouth for the Ivy League championship, Nebraska is idle, and Arkansas faces Texas Tech.

In the big battle at South Bend, Ind., Michigan State goes in with an average total offense a game of 363.9 yards, fourth in the nation, as against Notre Dame's 351.0, in 11th place. Tulsa leads in this category with 425.0 a game, followed by Nebraska 403.2, and Princeton 366.9.

In rushing offense Nebraska is in front with 285.1, with Notre Dame second at 255.3, and Michigan State sixth at 240.0.

Tulsa is the leader in passing with 344.8 yards a game and 25 touchdowns, well ahead of Texas Western with 322.9 and 17 touchdowns.

In scoring, Notre Dame in eight games has 267 points for a 33.4 average, the same as Princeton, followed by Nebraska with 300 in nine games and 33.3; Tulsa 254 in 8, 31.8 Arkansas 282 in 9, 31.3; Dartmouth 243 in 8, 30.4; Utah State, 257 in 9, 28.6; Colorado State University, 244 in 9, 27.1; West Virginia, 242 in 9, 26.9; and in tenth place Michigan State 239 in 9, 26.6.

Solich Watches Practice

Nebraska's leading rusher, Frank Solich watched from the sidelines Tuesday as the Huskers moved through drills for their final season game Thanksgiving Day against Oklahoma.

After taking whirlpool treatment for his bruised knee, Solich watched in street clothes as his teammates worked out.

Coach Bob Devaney plans workouts through Friday of this week and Monday, Tuesday and Wednseday of next week with the game slated for Thursday.

"We may work out Saturday morning," Devaney said. "But we haven't decided on that yet. We may decide to give them Saturday and Sunday off."

Saturday is the first open date a Nebraska football team has had since Devaney took over.

The Husker coach also revealed Tuesday that Arizona has been chosen as the training site for pre-Orange Bowl preparations.

He declined to name the exact city because he was still waiting for official confirmation from school authorities in that city.

Devaney plans two-a-day drills at the Arizona site starting either Dec. 14 or 15 and continuing through Dec. 21 or 22. The team will leave Lincoln for Miami Dec. 26.

Michigan State To Battle Winner

Chicago (AP) — The unbeaten No. 1 ranked Michigan State Spartans, winners of their first undisputed Big Ten football title, formally received Tuesday a unanimous vote of conference athletic directors for their third Rose Bowl trip.

The Spartans seek their 10th straight victory in closing out their regular schedule against No. 4 Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend, Ind. Their Rose Bowl opponent Jan. 1 will be either Southern California or UCLA. That decision will be reached Saturday when the two Coast team have a showdown.

Michigan State's Rose Bowl choice marked the first time in the history of the Big Ten contract for the game that the conference made an official selection before the end of the regular season.

The Spartans defeated UCLA 28-20 in the 1954 Rose Bowl and returned in 1956 to down UCLA 17-14. In each case MSU was runner-up in the Big Ten.

AP BACK OF WEEK

Michigan State quarterback Steve Juday, right, was surprised and happy Tuesday as he learned that he had been named the AP Back of the Week. Defensive safety man Jimmy Summers helps Juday adjust his shoulder pads before heading to the practice field to prepare for Saturday's game against Notre Dame.

8-Man All-State Power Packed

. . . BACKFIELD COMBINED FOR 542 POINTS IN SEASON

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

The 1965 all-state eight-man team boasts a backfield combination with a potent scoring wallop and a powerful line.

Sutherland's Ken Beatty, Alvo-Eagle's Gary Johnson and Axtell's Dave Larson, the all-state backfield, combined for a total of 542 points during the season.

Setting the pace in the backfield voting was Beatty, who won the Class D 100 and 220 titles as a junior. The Sutherland sizzler averaged 11.6 yards per carry en route to a 196-point season and was an exceptional defensive player.

Johnson, who has size, speed and power, averaged just over 10 yards a carry and tallied 171 points. He kept the defenses honest with his throwing, passing often enough to account for 302 yards and three touchdowns.

Larson, a scatback who set the offensive pace in the free-wheeling Fort Kearney Conference, had the biggest scoring night of the season when he tallied 57 points in a 67-45 win over Sumner. The 155-pound senior averaged just under 200 yards a game in rushing offense.

Hub of the all-state front wall is Cedar Bluffs senior Mike Kaczmarski, who edged Doniphan's Cliff Underwood in a tight race for the center spot.

Kaczmarski, a 6-2, 205-pound veteran, helped establish a powerful running attack with his offensive blocking and spearheaded a tough defensive line that helped Cedar Bluffs roll to a perfect 10-0 season.

At the guard spots are Barlett's Al Childers, the only junior on the squad, and Overton's Bob Larson.

Childers, 5-10 and 185 pounds, relished the heavy going and his solid line play boosted Bartlett to an unbeaten campaign.

Larson played the same role for unbeaten Overton. He handled center linebacker chores for the Eagles and among his accomplishments were a pair of blocked punts which were turned into touchdowns.

Western's Dennis Bartels and Dawson-Verdon's Bob Gergen are a powerful pair of ends.

Bartels, 6-2 and 205 pounds, excelled in all phases of end play. Perhaps his strongest suit was blocking, which helped the Indians develop a strong attack. He was a strong defender and a highly capable pass receiver.

Gergen, 6-2 and 195 pounds, has similar capabilities, also drawing high praise for his blocking. He had 12 touchdown receptions and was a tough defender. He added to the Dawson-Verdon punch with exceptional kickoff and punting work.

AFL CHANGES DRAFT DATE

New York (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss moved back the American Football League's draft Tuesday from Nov. 20 to Nov. 27.

The AFL had been bitterly criticized by college authorities for deciding earlier to hold its annual draft one week before the college football season virtually ended while the rival National Football League agreed to run its draft on Nov. 27.

The move came shortly after the Atlanta Journal and Dallas Times-Herald said they had been informed that the AFL had held a preliminary draft of six rounds on Nov. 2 or Nov. 9. This was promptly denied by AFL officials.

The AFL in New York announced that Foss, in Kansas City, had talked on the telephone with James Corbett, who was in Baton Rouge, La., and had been assured by the college official that the National Collegiate Athletic Commission would condemn any flagrant cases of "baby sitting" that would deprive college draftees of their bargaining rights.

—LANE, GARRISON MENTIONED—

ISU's Van Galder, Big 8 Back Of Week

Iowa State quarterback Tim Van Galder, with 344 yards total offense against Kansas State, was voted Big Eight back of the week by a slim margin over Gary Lane, Missouri quarterback, and Walt Garrison, Oklahoma State fullback.

The performances by Lane and Garrison were among the best in their careers and good enough to win back of the week honors almost any other Saturday this fall.

But Van Galder's 344 was second best in Big Eight history behind the 359 by Tony Scardino of Missouri against Oklahoma in 1951. His 293 passing was third best in league history behind Scardino and the 311 by Paul Christman of Missouri against K-State in 1938.

Lane had 155 total offense on 27 plays against Oklahoma and moved within 12 yards of 3,000 in career total offense, a mark reached by only seven players in league history. He scored three touchdowns and passed for the fourth.

Garrison slashed the Nebraska defense 121 yards in 19 carries, including an 18-yarder to the Husker 5-yard line on the final play.

"Garrison is the best fullback I've ever seen in the Big Eight," said Bob Devaney, Nebraska coach.

Other back candidates included Harry Wilson of Nebraska with 95 yards rushing and two big plays, one a third-down pass reception, in the winning drive.

—LINCOLN TRACK PROSPERS—

Sharp Declines In Nebraska Racing Figures Cause Study

Sharp declines in both daily average attendance and daily average pari-mutuel handle in the state in 1965 are causing operators of the seven Thoroughbred horse racing tracks in Nebraska to take a long, hard look at many probelms.

Six of the state's seven tracks were down in daily average attendance and five of the seven were down in daily average mutuel handle. Only a complete rejuvenation of Thoroughbred racing at the Nebraska State Fair Grounds in Lincoln provided a bright spot.

The Thoroughbred Racing Associations of Nebraska is holding its annual meeting in Lincoln.

Each track's officials will meet with the Nebraska State Racing Commission Wednesday to be assigned its dates for 1966.

TRAN officials expressed concern over the continued increase in state tax on the pari-mutuel handle which was increased 33% from 3% to 4% on all money wagered.

"This increase in the state tax has to be one of our main problems and has been a main factor in the decline this year," Warren Albert of Columbus, president of the TRAN, declared.

The state had 162 days of Thoroughbred racing in 1965 compared to 149 in 1964. This brought about an increase in total attendance from 913,385 to 945,103. But the average attendance was down 4.83%. The total pari-mutuel handle was also up with $49,026,061 in 1965, compared to $47,585,946 in 1964. But again the daily average was down by 5.24%.

Lincoln, which was buoyed by new dates following the Omaha meeting, a completely refurbished plant and outstanding horses, due in part to flooding in Colorado, had its greatest meeting in history. The Fairgrounds handle was up 7.49% and the attendance was up 11.80%.

Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha was down in attendance for the first time in 15 years but managed a slight 1.90% increase in handle, sparked by the installation of big screen television, a first in Thoroughbred racing in the United States.

Other than Lincoln's gains in attendance and handle and Omaha's small increase in handle, the rest of the story was a gloomy one.

In addition to the increased pari-mutuel tax, the tracks fought the weather, highway detours, changes in the schedule and possibly a saturation point of racing dates for the state.

Average pari-mutuel handle was off in alarming fashion. At Grand Island's Fonner Park it was down 12.00%, at Columbus 1.90%, at Madison 33.68%, at Mitchell 17.16% and at Atokad in South Sioux City 10.15%.

Average attendance was down 4.13% at Grand Island, 0.45% at Omaha, 0.69% at Columbus, 32.26% at Madison, 10.28% at Mitchell, and 9.29% at South Sioux City.

The State Racing Commission in 1965 awarded 5 additional days to South Sioux City, 4 additional days to Columbus, 3 additional days to Lincoln, and 1 additional day to Grand Island.

"It is extremely interesting to note," Mr. Albert said, "that the last four meetings in the state were all down in both average attendance and average handle. Horse racing, as conducted in Nebraska on a non-profit basis, is a wonderful thing for the state and the state itself receives nearly $2 million for the general fund.

"But a limit can be reached, especially in view of the rather limited population of Nebraska. The racing industry in Nebraska is faced with tremendously increased competition from other states to obtain horses. Everything must be done to see that the future of horse racing in Nebraska is not jeopardized."

The tracks are faced not only with the pari-mutuel tax. They also pay a state admission tax, a state licensing fee and fees are paid by all individuals racing in Nebraska.

Elgin SB, Cedar Bluffs Hold D, 8-Man Leads In Ratings

. . . ONE NEWCOMER; O SOLID BACKGROUND—

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Elgin St. Boniface, a relative newcomer to the football scene, and Cedar Bluffs, which has a solid background in the sport, claim the No 1 spots in the Class D and eight-man divisions of the Nebraska Prep Ratings

St. Boniface started its football program in 1964, losing its first game, then finishing with seven straight wins to earn the No. 4 spot in Class D.

The Knights added eight more wins to their string in the 1965 campaign, then lost their final contest to Class C Niobrara.

The St. Boniface club holds a slim edge over Hartington in the final ratings

Hartington also finished 8-1, with all of its games being played against Class C opponents.

Cedar Bluffs rolled to a 10-0 season to get the nod over Western. Overton and Sutherland in an exceptionally close race in the eight-man ranks.

Cedar Bluffs handed ninth-ranked Snyder its only two losses and was also the only club able to decision Prague and Platte Center.

Western, a well-balanced outfit, finishes in the No. 2 position after leading the pack for several weeks.

Overton, the Fort Kearney Conference champion, and Sutherland, which boasts a 20-game winning string, offered stiff challenges for the top spot.

Maywood, which rolled to a 9-0 campaign with a predominance of underclassmen, heads the next division with Doniphan, Dawson-Verdon, Paxton, Snyder and Bartlett rounding out the top ten.

McAdams Still Out Of OU Lineup

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's Sooners went through a light one-hour drill Tuesday, still without the services of ace linebacker Carl McAdams, in preparation for the Thanksgiving Day football game against Nebraska at Lincoln.

Coaches said the light drills would continue through Thursday when heavy drills based on Nebraska formations would begin and run through the weekend.

Sitting on the sidelines with injuries, in addition to McAdams, were left offensive guard Robert Vardeman, Robert Kalsu and wingback Tommy Pannell. Vardeman, Kalsu and Pannell are expected back in the lineup by Friday.

The coaches picked Alan Henderson, a junior from Folsom, Calif., to receive the weekly "Ug" Award for standout defensive play. He made 10 unassisted and three assisted tackles in the Missouri game lat week.

Wisconsin Coach, Van Galder, Dies

Madison, Wis. (AP) — Assistant football coach Clark Van Galder of the University of Wisconsin collapsed and died Tuesday night at a Madison High School athletic banquet.

The 54-year-old coach, who suffered a heart attack earlier this year, was dead on arrival at University Hospital.

Van Galder was married and the father of five sons. His fourth oldest son, Tim, is an outstanding quarterback at Iowa State University.

New York (AP) — Dick Barnett threw in 40 points, his highest game mark in the National Basketball Association, to lead the New York Knicks to a 120-95 victory over the Detroit Pistons in the second game of an NBA doubleheader Tuesday night.

Barnett led a third quarter spurt that ended a four-game losing streak for the Knicks. He threw in 14 points in this stanza to put the Knicks ahead by 10 points, 80-70, and turned the game into a rout. New York held only a 49-48 lead at halftime.

Barnett's previous best one-game high was 38 points with the Los Angeles Lakers. He was traded to the Knicks before this season opened.

Chamberlain-Led Rally Gives 76ers Win Over Hawks

New York (AP) — Big Wilt Chamberlain rallied the Philadelphia 76ers from a seven-point deficit in the last period for a 107-98 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in the first game of a National Basketball Association doubleheader Tuesday night.

Philadelphia's victory over the Hawks was the fifth straight for the Eastern Division leaders.

Chamberlain, who scored 30 points altogether, reeled off 13 of them early in the last period to bring the 76ers from behind a 79-72 deficit and put them ahead 95-85. The Big Dipper played the last eight minutes with five personals against him, but he kept the 76ers ahead.

Hunting Report

A capsule report by area from Game Commission conservation officers.

NORTHEAST: About 40,000 ducks on Lewis and Clark Lake look promising for the duck hunter. Waterfowl hunting also appears bright in the Ponca and Fremont areas DeSoto Bend has 130,000 ducks and 30,000 geese. Pheasant and quail are good bets in Madison County and in the Tekamah area. Best spots to look are creek banks, milo fields, weed patches, and picked corn

SAND HILLS: Although hunting pressure is light, gunners are finding pheasants in corn and milo throughout Custer County. Duck populations are strong in Holt and Boyd counties, but again pressure is nil. Trout are active at Merritt Reservoir.

PANHANDLE: Large flocks of ducks were sighted at Lake Minatare, Lake Alice, and on the Platte in Scotts Bluff County. The majority of these are mallards. Geese are holding their own on the Platte in Morrill County, and along the Platte from Bayard to Lisco. Some 8,000 geese and 20,000 ducks are loitering around Lake McConaughy and the Garden County Refuge. Trout are active at Nine Mile Creek.

SOUTHWEST: Mixed-bag hunting is spotlighted, but few hunters are taking advantage of the birds. Pheasants and quail are available but gunners find the going rough with heavy cover. Large numbers of mallards provide good hunting along the Platte and on lagoons and potholes in the area

SOUTHEAST: Again, duck hunting steals the show. Large flocks can be found in the rain water basins, Clay County, and in the Sutton area. Mostly goldeneye make up the duck congregations. Best shooting is early in the morning and late afternoon. Sharp duck shooting awaits gunners on the Platte in the Ashland area.

Iowa Head Coach Jerry Burns Fired

. . . WINLESS IN BIG 10

Iowa City, Iowa (AP) — Jerry Burns was dismissed Tuesday night as head football coach of the University of Iowa after the conclusion of the Hawkeyes' worst Big Ten season in years.

The action was announced by the university board in control of athletics at the board's regular session.

The firing of Burns had been expected. Iowa lost all of its seven Big Ten games this season and its losing streak in the conference was extended to 11 straight games.

The Hawkeyes have won one nonconference game this year and will end the season in a nonconference game at North Carolina Saturday.

Board Chairman Hugh Kelso said in a statement:

"After careful review and consideration, the board in control of athletics has notified Jerry Burns of its decision to declare the position of head football coach at the University of Iowa open at the end of the 1965 season.

"In accordance with the agreement between Mr. Burns and the board, the board will offer him other duties in the department of intercollegiate athletics for at least one year.

"This action has been taken at the conclusion of the regular conference season in order to proceed without delay in the search for and selection of a new head football coach at Iowa.

"The board has decided that the football coaching staff should be continued on salary for a reasonable time beyond Dec. 31 1965, the termination date of the current employment agreement with them."

Elgin SB, Cedar Bluffs Hold D, 8-Man Leads In Ratings

. . . ONE NEWCOMER; O SOLID BACKGROUND—

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Elgin St. Boniface, a relative newcomer to the football scene, and Cedar Bluffs, which has a solid background in the sport, claim the No. 1 spots in the Class D and eight-man divisions of the Nebraska Prep Ratings.

St. Boniface started its football program in 1964, losing its first game, then finishing with seven straight wins to earn the No. 4 spot in Class D.

The Knights added eight more wins to their string in the 1965 campaign, then lost their final contest to Class C Niobrara.

The St. Boniface club holds a slim edge over Hartington in the final ratings.

Hartington also finished 8-1, with all of its games being played against Class C opponents.

Cedar Bluffs rolled to a 10-0 season to get the nod over Western, Overton and Sutherland in an exceptionally close race in the eight-man ranks.

Cedar Bluffs handed ninth-ranked Snyder its only two losses and was also the only club able to decision Prague and Platte Center.

Western, a well-balanced outfit, finishes in the No. 2 position after leading the pack for several weeks.

Overton, the Fort Kearney Conference champion, and Sutherland, which boasts a 20-game winning string, offered stiff challenges for the top spot.

Maywood, which rolled to a 9-0 campaign with a predominance of underclassmen, heads the next division with Doniphan, Dawson-Verdon, Paxton, Snyder and Bartlett rounding out the top ten.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

4—Wolbach (6-2)	9—Lawrence (5-3-1)
5—Palmer (7-2)	10—Edgar (6-2)

Comment—St. Boniface was dumped from unbeaten ranks by Class C Niobrara in final week of play. Hartington also suffered its only loss in its last contest.

Eight-Man

1—Cedar Bluffs (10-0)	6—Doniphan (9-0)
2—Western (9-0)	7—Dawson-Verdon (7-1)
3—Overton (8-0)	8—Paxton (7-1)
4—Sutherland (9-0)	9—Snyder (8-2)

Hunter's Clock

Readers are reminded that shooting hours for all upland game birds and small-game animals are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Shooting hours for big game are from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. Waterfowl and other migratory birds may be taken between sunrise and sunset. The following applies to shooting at any point in Nebraska that is due north or due south of each of the cities and towns. For each 13 miles west of each city add one minute, and for each 13 miles east subtract one minute.

McAdams Still Out Of OU Lineup

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's Sooners went through a light one-hour drill Tuesday, still without the services of ace linebacker Carl McAdams, in preparation for the Thanksgiving Day football game against Nebraska at Lincoln.

Coaches said the light drills would continue through Thursday when heavy drills based on Nebraska formations would begin and run through the weekend.

Sitting on the sidelines with injuries, in addition to McAdams, were left offensive guard Robert Vardeman, Robert Kalsu and wingback Tommy Pannell. Vardeman, Kalsu and Pannell are expected back in the lineup by Friday.

The coaches picked Alan Henderson, a junior from Folsom, Calif., to receive the weekly "Ug" Award for standout defensive play. He made 10 unassisted and three assisted tackles in the Missouri game lat week.

Wisconsin Coach, Van Galder, Dies

Madison, Wis. (AP) — Assistant football coach Clark Van Galder of the University of Wisconsin collapsed and died Tuesday night at a Madison High School athletic banquet.

The 54-year-old coach, who suffered a heart attack earlier this year, was dead on arrival at University Hospital.

Van Galder was married and the father of five sons. His fourth oldest son, Tim, is an outstanding quarterback at Iowa State University.

SAND HILLS: Although hunting pressure is light, gunners are finding pheasants in corn and milo throughout Custer County. Duck populations are strong in Holt and Boyd counties, but again pressure is nil. Trout are active at Merritt Reservoir.

PANHANDLE: Large flocks of ducks were sighted at Lake Minatare, Lake Alice, and on the Platte in Scotts Bluff County. The majority of these are mallards. Geese are holding their own on the Platte in Morrill County, and along the Platte from Bayard to Lisco. Some 8,000 geese and 20,000 ducks are loitering around Lake McConaughy and the Garden County Refuge. Trout are active at Nine Mile Creek.

SOUTHWEST: Mixed-bag hunting is spotlighted, but few hunters are taking advantage of the birds. Pheasants and quail are available but gunners find the going rough with heavy cover. Large numbers of mallards provide good hunting along the Platte and on lagoons and potholes in the area.

SOUTHEAST: Again, duck hunting steals the show. Large flocks can be found in the rain water basins, Clay County, and in the Sutton area. Mostly goldeneye make up the duck congregations. Best shooting is early in the morning and late afternoon. Sharp duck shooting awaits gunners on the Platte in the Ashland area.

Iowa Head Coach Jerry Burns Fired

. . . WINLESS IN BIG 10

Iowa City, Iowa (AP) — Jerry Burns was dismissed Tuesday night as head football coach of the University of Iowa after the conclusion of the Hawkeyes' worst Big Ten season in years.

The action was announced by the university board in control of athletics at the board's regular session.

The firing of Burns had been expected. Iowa lost all of its seven Big Ten games this season and its losing streak in the conference was extended to 11 straight games.

The Hawkeyes have won one nonconference game this year and will end the season in a nonconference game at North Carolina Saturday.

Board Chairman Hugh Kelso said in a statement:

"After careful review and consideration, the board in control of athletics has notified Jerry Burns of its decision to declare the position of head football coach at the University of Iowa open at the end of the 1965 season.

"In accordance with the agreement between Mr. Burns and the board, the board will offer him other duties in the department of intercollegiate athletics for at least one year.

"This action has been taken at the conclusion of the regular conference season in order to proceed without delay in the search for and selection of a new head football coach at Iowa.

"The board has decided that the football coaching staff should be continued on salary for a reasonable time beyond Dec. 31, 1965, the termination date of the current employment agreement with them."

Van Brocklin Reconsiders

. . . VIKING COACH 'JUST BECAME DEPRESSED'

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP) — Stormy Norm Van Brocklin changed his mind Tuesday and returned as head coach of the Minnesota Vikings, saying humbly he had made a mistake and was grateful for the opportunity to rectify it.

"There is no explanation," Van Brocklin said of his impetuous decision Monday to quit the Viking post.

"I just became depressed, but I later realized I didn't want to quit," he said.

"They let me come back, for which I'm very grateful. They should have kicked me in the seat of the pants."

Van Brocklin said he spent all day Monday after announcing his decision to quit at his home "and thought a lot, and realize how much of a mistake I had made."

The high-strung Dutchman said he "embarrassed myself, my family and my friends."

But, he said, his family had no part in either of his decisions, adding: "My family will do anything I choose to do. They are wonderful."

Van Brocklin said: "I guess this is something every coach goes through. I thought we could win. Some people thought I was crazy for thinking that."

The announcement that Van Brocklin was returning came earlier, through Vikings officials

Through Jim Finks, general manager of the National Football League club, Van Brocklin quipped:

"The next time I resign, I'll be within four of Buddy Parker's record." He referred to the several resignations of former Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Buddy Parker.

Finks said Van Brocklin would not be available to the press until 3 p.m., CST, because of the necessity for catching up in making preparations for Sunday's invasion by Green Bay.

He held a squad meeting Tuesday morning to tell his players of his decision, however.

Finks and Viking President Max Winter both looked relieved and relaxed as they met the press shortly before noon to announce Van Brocklin's change of heart.

"I am very happy to report that Norm has reconsidered and currently is with the football team," Finks said. "Norm realized that he had made a mistake and changed his mind. We don't care why, we're just very happy that he did."

U.S. Calls For Two-Thirds Vote On Red China Admission

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — The United States urged the General Assembly Tuesday to virtually guarantee exclusion of Red China from the United Nations by declaring a two-thirds majority vote is mandatory on the issue of Chinese representation.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost made the plea as the 117-nation assembly moved on toward a vote—probably late Wednesday—on the controversial issue of admitting the Chinese Communists and expelling the Chinese Nationalists. U.S. sources claimed they had enough votes to keep the U.N. door closed again this year to the Peking regime.

To insure the outcome the United States and 10 other foes of Peking insisted that the assembly reaffirm its 1961 decision requiring a two-thirds majority vote.

Yost declared that the question of peace in Asia was involved in the decision facing the assembly, and therefore no one could deny application of the two-thirds rule.

He repeated U.S. charges that Peking's attitude toward the United Nations was one of outright hostility, and that its presence in the organization would be a destructive one.

Ambassador Liu Chieh of Nationalist China asserted that Peking's declared policy has been "the destruction of the United Nations." He accused the Chinese Communists of trying to dictate their own terms for admission.

In a last-minute move the Ceylon delegation proposed that the assembly vote only on the issue of seating the Chinese Communists without mentioning the status of Nationalist China.

Ceylon submitted an amendment that would delete from the resolution pending before the assembly any reference to expelling the Nationalists and call only for a decision that "the representatives of the People's Republic of China be seated in the United Nations and all its organs." This is known to be unacceptable to Peking.

A flurry of speeches by delegates during the afternoon delayed a vote, and the assembly adjourned at 5:17 p.m. CST until 9.30 a.m. CST Wednesday.

But U.S sources insisted that the anti-Peking forces could win by even a simple majority, and that the resolution proposing reaffirmation of the two-thirds rule had been introduced in order to speed a decision. Many diplomats thought the United States was being overly optimistic, but none disputed that the pro-Peking members would fail to win a two-thirds vote.

Ambassador Halim Budo of Albania, whose country is garded as Peking's voice in the United Nations, said the United States had lost its "automatic majority" and thus was forced to seek application of the two-thirds rules.

Russell Favors Bombing Any North Viet Nam Targets

Washington (UPI) — Sen Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., Tuesday went on record as favoring bombing any facilities in North Viet Nam that are being used to "kill American boys in South Viet Nam."

The Senate Armed Services committee chairman, urging specifically that American air and sea forces knock out the harbor area of Haiphong, said, "It's a mistake to delay any longer."

Russell at the same time told reporters he was "amazed at published reports that the United States government had turned its back on an indicated willingness by the North Vietnamese last year to negotiate a settlement of the South Viet Nam conflict."

He said he intended to "check into it" at once, and indicated that since his committee oversees the Central Intelligence Agency he might expect some answers.

Queen Orders Restoring Of British Power In Rhodesia

London (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II signed seven orders Tuesday giving Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government wide powers to restore Britain's authority over the breakaway colony of Rhodesia.

Wilson told the House of Commons again he opposes the use of military force to impose a settlement on Rhodesia. But he said Britain may in certan circumstances intervene militarily if law and order break down among Rhodesia's 225,000 whites and 3.8 million Africans.

From Salisbury came a report that Prime Minister Ian Smith's regime has cut the telephones linking Britain's representative, Gov. Sir Humphrey Gibbs, with the outside world.

But Commonwealth Relations Secretary Arthur Bottomley told parliamentary questioners: "We are still in touch with the governor."

Gibbs, 62, is understood to be maintaining contact with London by way of a secret radio system.

The orders in council signed by the queen were authorized by a law hustled through Parliament in the early hours with all-party support that stifled the protests of a Conservative pro-Smith faction.

These powers—allowing the Wilson government to hit back at the Rhodesian rebels with a variety of political, economic and fiscal sanctions—will become effective on publication Wednesday.

The orders:

—Scrap any law passed by Rhodesia's parliament since independence was proclaimed five days ago—and reinvest in the queen, acting through Bottomley, all rights to rule the colony.

—Deny Rhodesia benefits of the Commonwealth preference system in trading—meaning Rhodesian goods can enter Britain only on tariff terms applied to foreign, non-Commonwealth states.

—Suspend Rhodesia's membership in the Commonwealth sugar agreement—meaning Rhodesians will have to battle on less favorable world markets to sell their sugar.

—Provide easy British citizenship for pro British Rhodesians, give political asylum to Smith's opponents and cancel passports issued to Rhodesians by the Smith regime since independence.

Indian Students Attack Legation

New Delhi, India (AP)—About 50 banner-waving, shouting students from Delhi University attacked the British high commission (legation) here Tuesday night protesting British policy on Rhodesia.

They tore down and burned a Union Jack and smashed windows.

"Down with Smith, down with the queen," they yelled, and waved placards reading: "Wilson a coward, down with Wilson."

Police eventually broke it up.

White Rhodesians Up Liquor, Tobacco Taxes

Salisbury (UPI)—The rebellious white-supremacy Rhodesian government imposed new taxes on liquor and tobacco Tuesday in anticipation of the economic reprisals taken against it for declaring independence unilaterally.

New excise taxes and customs duties ranging from 84 cents a pound for tobacco to $4.80 a pound for imported spirits were to go into effect at midnight.

They were the first in a series of austerity measures which are expected to be imposed in an effort to limit loss of revenue resulting from the sanctions.

Stock Mart List Is Scrambled

New York (AP)—The stock market was a study in contrasts Tuesday, great strength alongside of weakness, and the result was a scrambled list which went nowhere on average. Trading was heavy.

The strength was shown among the electronics, aerospace issues, office equipments, special situations and other stocks which attracted intense trading interest.

The weakness was in some of the big name stocks which are influential in the popular averages. These indicators disagreed as to where the market was really heading.

Among the 1,511 issues traded, however, losers outnumbered gainers by 703 to 565. New highs for the year totaled 125 and new lows 39.

The basic market background seemed encouraging. The Gross National Product is expected increasing more in the third quarter than of a 5% expected. Industrial production rose in October despite a sharp decline in the steel industry. Rising demand and shrinking supplies of copper were reported. Car sales were on the uptick.

The Dow Jones industrial average, however, was up only a trifling .61 at 956.51.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index declined .22 to 92.41.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained .2 to 355.4 with industrials up .9, rails up .1 to a 1965 high and utilities off .7.

Volume was 8.38 million shares compared with 8.32 million Monday.

The 15 most active stocks, however, had 13 gainers to only 2 losers. American Telephone, which dropped ⅝, and Admiral Corp., which lost a point as profits were taken on its 5½ point jump of Monday.

Transitron, delayed in opening because of buying pressure, was the most active issue, up 3 at 15⅝ on 235,100 shares.

Among the market wheelhorses, General Motors sank 1⅝, Du Pont 2½, Ford ⅞, U.S. Steel 1¼, Royal Dutch 1, Standard Oil New Jersey ½, New York Central ⅝ and U.S Rubber ½.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly lower. Volume was 3.11 million shares compared with 3.31 million Monday.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. Treasury bonds higher.

Demand Improves In Grain Market

Chicago (AP) — Steadily improving demand after a rather weak opening lifted nearly all grain futures contracts into a firm range Tuesday on the Board of Trade.

Old crop wheat which had been under fairly steady pressure lately was the best gainer, finishing with net advances of major fractions. However, it had been up more than a cent at times.

A rally in soybean oil imparted a little strength to soybeans in late dealings and small gains became general. Rye was the only loser.

Stock Mart List Is Scrambled

New York (AP)—The stock market was a study in contrasts Tuesday, great strength alongside of weakness, and the result was a scrambled list which went nowhere on average. Trading was heavy.

The strength was shown among the electronics, aerospace issues, office equipments, special situations and other stocks which attracted intense trading interest.

The weakness was in some of the big name stocks which are influential in the popular averages. These indicators disagreed as to where the market was really heading.

Among the 1,411 issues traded, however, losers outnumbered gainers by 593 to 565. New highs for the year totaled 125 and new lows 30.

The basic market background seemed encouraging. The Gross National Product was reported increasing more in the third quarter than originally expected. Industrial production rose in October despite a sharp decline in the steel industry. Rising demand and shrinking supplies of copper were reported. Car sales were on the uptick.

The Dow Jones industrial average, however, was up only a trifling .61 at 956.51.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index declined .22 to 92.41.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained .2 at 355.4 with industrials up .9, rails up .1 to a 1965 high and utilities off .7.

Volume was 8.38 million shares compared with 8.32 million Monday.

The 15 most active stocks, however, had 13 gainers to only 2 losers. American Telephone, which dropped 5/8, and Admiral Corp., which lost a point as profits were taken on its 5¼-point jump of Monday.

Transitron, delayed in opening because of buying pressure, was the most active issue, up 3 at 15⅞ on 235,100 shares.

Among the market wheel-horses, General Motors sank 1⅞, Du Pont 2¾, Ford ⅜, U.S. Steel ½, Royal Dutch 1, Standard Oil New Jersey ½, New York Central ⅝ and U.S. Rubber ½.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly lower. Volume was 3.11 million shares compared with 3.31 million Monday.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. Treasury bonds higher.

Demand Improves In Grain Market

Chicago (AP) — Steadily improving demand after a rather weak opening lifted nearly all grain futures contracts into a firm range Tuesday on the Board of Trade.

Old crop wheat which had been under fairly steady pressure lately was the best gainer, finishing with net advances of major fractions. However, it had been up more than a cent at times.

A rally in soybean oil imparted a little strength to soybeans in late dealings and small gains became general. Rye was the only loser.

Wheat closed 1¼-⅜ cent a bushel higher, December $1.63½-⅝; corn unchanged to ⅝ higher, December $1.16⅜-½; oats ⅜-¾ higher, December 69½ cents; rye ⅜-½ lower, December $1.20¼; soybeans unchanged to ⅜ higher, November $2.54¾-¼.

Republicans Say Checks, Balances Fail

Washington (AP) — Republicans said Tuesday that historic checks and balances in U.S. government are breaking down under overwhelming Democratic domination — and that the ultimate cost of President Johnson's programs cannot be estimated.

"All Americans, Democrats, Republicans and independents, have a vital stake in a restoration of a strong two-party system in this country," Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin said. Laird is chairman of the House Republican Conference, the organization of all GOP House members.

Another Republican spokesman in the House, Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, said he attempted a tabulation of the cost over the next five years of legislation passed at the 1965 session, but "in very many instances, there is little information available . . .

Future 'Open'

"An estimate is available for the first year only, with future years 'open.'" Bow is senior minority member of the House Appropriations Committee.

Laird's and Bow's views appeared in the final issue of this year's Congressional Record.

Laird contended that the heavy Democratic majorities, which are the biggest since the 1930s, forced unduly quick action on major legislative items.

Examples

He cited what he called instances of such actions, either in committee or on the floor, on such things as school aid, Appalachaia regional development, support for the arts and humanities, and highway beautification.

Laird said also that in some cases, like that of the voting rights bill, almost "any significant amendment offered by a Republican was blindly voted down."

"Conformity precludes the exercise of rational debate, which is one of the basic ingredients not only of a free society but of a representative government," Laird said.

He said also that when Republicans expressed doubts, for example, about some provisions of the voting rights bill, they were met with "loud charges and denunciations of Republicans as being against voting rights legislation . . . No debate on its merits; just a flat denunciation."

Soviets Attack 'Stinky' Book By CIA Spy

Moscow (AP)—A book issued in the United States as "The Penkovskiy Papers," attributed to a spy, was attacked by Tass Tuesday as an "example of the stinky concoctions" of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The Tass agency claimed the CIA produced the book to offset failures and to try to convince Americans of CIA's worth. CIA has not commented on the book. It is being published in New York Friday, but some of its content has become known.

Tass said the Soviet Union by 1961 had successfully tested missiles with a range exceeding 7,640 miles and accurate within a kilometer (two thirds of a mile). This countered the contention attributed to the papers that the Soviet Union had no accurate long range missiles at that time.

Oleg Penkovskiy was executed as a spy here in 1963.

Transplanted Kidney Is Said Nearly Normal

Omaha (AP) — Doctors reported Tuesday that the functioning of Sidney Schlotfeld's newly transplanted kidney was nearly normal.

Schlotfeld, Omaha's first kidney transplant patient, was in "excellent condition" at a hospital.

John N. Cox, 77, Contractor, Dies; Rites Thursday

Norfolk (UPI) — Funeral services for John N. Cox, 77, Norfolk, will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Methodist Church here.

Mr. Cox was a well-known Norfolk contractor. He was associated with his sons, Sidney and Wayne, in the building construction business.

He learned the carpenter trade in West Point, where he lived for a time before homesteading in Montana for six years. After serving in World War I he went to Newman Grove where he entered the contracting business.

He came to Norfolk in 1924 and established the Cox Construction Co.

Survivors include his wife, Myrtle; three sons, Merle, Corpus Christi, Tex., and Sidney and Wayne, Norfolk; a brother and six sisters.

Tree-Lighting Rites

Wayne — A tree-lighting ceremony and Christmas carol sing will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 29, at the campus Willow Bowl. The event is being sponsored by the Wayne State Faculty Wives Club.

The Canadian singer married Shuttleworth in a surprise wedding in Las Vegas, Nev., in 1958. He was then her manager. They separated last Oct. 18.

In her complaint, Miss MacKenzie asked that community debts be divided between them. She said she was self-supporting and asked only $1 token alimony and reasonable child support.

New York Stay Up, Down Trip For Fairburians

Fairbury — Their New York trip will never be forgotten by Mr. and Mrs. Lea Fairley of Fairbury, who spent eight hours on the 80th floor of the Empire State Building in total darkness.

In NYC to attend the National Milk Producers Foundation convention, the Fairbury couple were waiting in the Empire State Building for an elevator to take them to the street level when the power blackout came at 5:19 p.m.

"We had just been to the top of the building, but an elevator change must be made on the 80th floor," Mrs. Fairley explained

About 1 a.m. some Japanese men who have an office near where the Fairburians were stranded rigged some light with transistor batteries. With the aid of this light the group of six walked down the 80 flights of stairs.

The Fairleys walked 1½ miles to their hotel and 44 flights up to their room, reaching there about 3 a.m. Fifteen minutes later power was restored at the hotel.

Inquest Likely Into Death Of Atkinson Youth

O'Neill (AP) — Holt County Sheriff Leo Tomjack said Tuesday an inquest may be held into the death of Roger Moeller, 19, of Atkinson, found in his car near Atkinson Monday dying of a shotgun wound in the head.

Tomjack said the boy was found slumped over the steering wheel of the car and a gun was setting on the floor of the car. He died several hours later in a hospital.

The sheriff said Moeller and a 15-year-old youth were stopped at Valentine where the 15-year-old was held for his parents. Moeller was released and started for home. Authorities said it has not been determined if the gun was discharged accidentally.

Moeller was found by Jay Jungman of Atkinson. Jungman left the blinker lights on his car truck operating while he went to a nearby ranch to summon help. While he was gone a car carrying Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McDowell of Atkinson struck the back of the truck. Mrs. McDowell was hospitalized with multiple bruises and abrasions.

Sleepy Hollow Unitization OKd

Sidney (AP)—The Nebraska Oil and Gas Conservation Commission Tuesday approved the unitization of the Sleepy Hollow Oil Field, largest in the state.

The decision involved Midwest Oil Corporation's application to unitize the Reagan Field and Pubco Petroleum Corporation's bid to unitize the Landing-Kansas City limestone reservoir. Both involve the giant Sleepy Hollow Field.

Production in the field has been falling for some time and in September it fell below 100,000 barrels for the first time.

Unitizing involves flooding of the oil reservoirs with water and thereby pushing the oil to the surface. The system is used in a number of Nebraska oil fields.

Operators feel that with this unitization and secondary recovery they will probably recover almost as much oil as they did in the primary recovery from the field.

Marsland (AP)—The father of Pvt. Floyd Johnson, 20, has been notified of the young Nebraska soldier's death in Viet Nam.

Pvt. Johnson, a native of Marsland, had been in the Army nearly two years and in Viet Nam two months.

Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Sam Jones, who lives in Colorado, four brothers and four sisters.

Martz Will Face Charges In Fatal Kearney Accident

Kearney (AP) — A coroner's jury reported Tuesday there are grounds for holding Robert Martz, 22-year-old Kearney State College student from Beatrice, in connection with a fatal accident in Kearney Oct. 15.

Buffalo County Attorney Andrew McMullen said he would file a motor vehicle homicide charge against Martz.

Martz was driver of a car which rammed the rear of a truck tractor inside the city limits of Kearney. Sharon Ann Spence, 22, of Lincoln, was killed in the accident.

The coroner's jury delayed its deliberation two weeks until Mary V. McDaniel of Lincoln, another passenger injured could be released from the hospital. Miss McDaniel had no recollection of the accident and did not testify before the coroner's jury.

Nebraska Does Tab Mrs. Jones

Falls City (AP)—Mrs. Virgil Jones of Falls City is the new state president of the BPO Does, auxiliary of the Elks.

Also elected at the weekend convention here were Mrs. Bob Sargent, Beatrice, vice president; Mrs. E. A. Martens, Fremont, secretary, and Mrs. Bob Stolz, Holdrege, secretary.

Republicans Say Checks, Balances Fail

Washington (AP) — Republicans said Tuesday that historic checks and balances in U.S. government are breaking down under overwhelming Democratic domination — and that the ultimate cost of President Johnson's programs cannot be estimated.

"All Americans, Democrats, Republicans and independents, have a vital stake in a restoration of a strong two-party system in this country," Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin said. Laird is chairman of the House Republican Conference, the organization of all GOP House members.

Another Republican spokesman in the House, Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, said he attempted a tabulation of the cost over the next five years of legislation passed at the 1965 session, but "in very many instances, there is little information available . . .

Future 'Open'

"An estimate is available for the first year only, with future years 'open.'" Bow is senior minority member of the House Appropriations Committee.

Laird's and Bow's views appeared in the final issue of this year's Congressional Record.

Laird contended that the heavy Democratic majorities, which are the biggest since the 1930s, forced unduly quick action on major legislative items.

Examples

He cited what he called instances of such actions, either in committee or on the floor, on such things as school aid, Appalachaia regional development, support for the arts and humanities, and highway beautification.

Laird said also that in some cases, like that of the voting rights bill, almost "any significant amendment offered by a Republican was blindly voted down."

"Conformity precludes the exercise of rational debate, which is one of the basic ingredients not only of a free society but of a representative government," Laird said.

He said also that when Republicans expressed doubts, for example, about some provisions of the voting rights bill, they were met with "loud charges and denunciations of Republicans as being against voting rights legislation . . . No debate on its merits; just a flat denunciation."

Soviets Attack 'Stinky' Book By CIA Spy

Moscow (AP)—A book issued in the United States as "The Penkovskiy Papers," attributed to a spy, was attacked by Tass Tuesday as an "example of the stinky concoctions" of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The Tass agency claimed the CIA produced the book to offset failures and to try to convince Americans of CIA's worth. CIA has not commented on the book. It is being published in New York Friday, but some of its content has become known.

Tass said the Soviet Union by 1961 had successfully tested missiles with a range exceeding 7,640 miles and accurate within a kilometer (two thirds of a mile). This countered the contention attributed to the papers that the Soviet Union had no accurate long range missiles at that time.

Oleg Penkovskiy was executed as a spy here in 1963.

Transplanted Kidney Is Said Nearly Normal

Omaha (AP) — Doctors reported Tuesday that the functioning of Sidney Schlotfeld's newly transplanted kidney was nearly normal.

Function of the kidney failed for about 72 hours last weekend. A second operation, performed Saturday, repaired a hole in a tube from the kidney to the bladder.

New York Stay Up, Down Trip For Fairburians

Fairbury — Their New York trip will never be forgotten by Mr. and Mrs. Lea Fairley of Fairbury, who spent eight hours on the 80th floor of the Empire State Building in total darkness.

In NYC to attend the National Milk Producers Foundation convention, the Fairbury couple were waiting in the Empire State Building for an elevator to take them to the street level when the power blackout came at 5:19 p.m.

"We had just been to the top of the building, but an elevator change must be made on the 80th floor," Mrs. Fairley explained.

About 1 a.m. some Japanese men who have an office near where the Fairburians were stranded rigged some light with transistor batteries. With the aid of this light the group of six walked down the 80 flights of stairs.

The Fairleys walked 1½ miles to their hotel and 44 flights up to their room, reaching there about 3 a.m. Fifteen minutes later power was restored at the hotel.

Inquest Likely Into Death Of Atkinson Youth

O'Neill (AP) — Holt County Sheriff Leo Tomjack said Tuesday an inquest may be held into the death of Roger Moeller, 19, of Atkinson, found in his car near Atkinson Monday dying of a shotgun wound in the head.

Tomjack said the boy was found slumped over the steering wheel of the car and a gun was setting on the floor of the car. He died several hours later in a hospital.

The sheriff said Moeller and a 15-year-old youth were stopped at Valentine where the 15-year-old was held for his parents. Moeller was released and started for home. Authorities said it has not been determined if the gun was discharged accidentally.

Moeller was found by Jay Jungman of Atkinson. Jungman left the blinker lights on his car truck operating while he went to a nearby ranch to summon help. While he was gone a car carrying Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McDowell of Atkinson struck the back of the truck. Mrs. McDowell was hospitalized with multiple bruises and abrasions.

Sleepy Hollow Unitization OKd

Sidney (AP)—The Nebraska Oil and Gas Conservation Commission Tuesday approved the unitization of the Sleepy Hollow Oil Field, largest in the state.

The decision involved Midwest Oil Corporation's application to unitize the Reagan Field and Pubco Petroleum Corporation's bid to unitize the Landing-Kansas City limestone reservoir. Both involve the giant Sleepy Hollow Field.

Production in the field has been falling for some time and in September it fell below 100,000 barrels for the first time.

Unitizing involves flooding of the oil reservoirs with water and thereby pushing the oil to the surface. The system is used in a number of Nebraska oil fields.

Operators feel that with this unitization and secondary recovery they will probably recover almost as much oil as they did in the primary recovery from the field.

Marsland (AP)—The father of Pvt. Floyd Johnson, 20, has been notified of the young Nebraska soldier's death in Viet Nam.

Earl Johnson, Marsland, said he was informed that his son was a surveyor in a mine laying operation when a mine was discharged, apparently by small arms fire from a sniper.

Pvt. Johnson, a native of Marsland, had been in the Army nearly two years and in Viet Nam two months.

Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Sam Jones, who lives in Colorado, four brothers and four sisters.

Martz Will Face Charges In Fatal Kearney Accident

Kearney (AP) — A coroner's jury reported Tuesday there are grounds for holding Robert Martz, 22-year-old Kearney State College student from Beatrice, in connection with a fatal accident in Kearney Oct. 15.

Buffalo County Attorney Andrew McMullen said he would file a motor vehicle homicide charge against Martz.

Martz was driver of a car whiched rammed the rear of a truck tractor inside the city limits of Kearney. Sharon Ann Spence, 22, of Lincoln, was killed in the accident.

The coroner's jury delayed its deliberation two weeks until Mary V. McDaniel of Lincoln, another passenger injured could be released from the hospital. Miss McDaniel had no recollection of the accident and did not testify before the coroner's jury.

Shift Unlikely In Interstate Programming

State Engineer John Hossack Tuesday said he doubts there will be any changes in Interstate Highway construction programming in the Omaha-Council Bluffs, Iowa, area as a result of a meeting of Nebraska and Iowa officials Friday.

"We have not changed our construction schedule materially since it was first set several years ago after consulting with Iowa officials," Hossack said. "As far as I know, Iowa hasn't changed its schedule either."

He said Friday's meeting, to be held in the Omaha City Hall, will "simply insure that there's still coordinated thinking" between the two states.

Sheep On Feed Decrease 9 Pct.

Sheep and lambs on feed in Nebraska as of Nov. 1 totaled 310,000 head, down 9% from the 340,000 a year earlier, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported Tuesday.

Placements during September and October at 277,000 head were down 10,000 head from last year. Sheep and lambs on feed and placed before Sept. 1 totaled 33,000 head, down 20,000 from last year.

In the seven major feeding states, sheep and lambs on feed Nov. 1 were down 7% from last year.
